SAVE RUSSIANS FROM AMERICA, KERENSKY AIM

American Capitalists Are Looting Russia of Its Resources, Is Charge.

WIPE OUT ALL AGREEMENTS

Land Grants by Americans Will Be Worthless When Soviets Are Wiped Out.

BY EDWIN HULLINGER.
(Copyright, 1921, by the United Press.)
Paris—Russia must be saved for a being looted by voracious American capitalists, Alexander Kerensky declared today in an exclusive interview. With this objective the former premier called for all the anti-bolshevik factions to rally to him to hurl Lenin and Trotsky out of power.

The United Press correspondent was received in a hotel room which, littered with charts and maps, resembled an army headquarters. There Kerensky was in conference with anti-bolshevik military experts and statesmen.

"Foreign capitalists who acquire long term grants in Russia from the soviet government are picking the pockets of a prostrate nation," Kerensky exclaimed, turning a moment from the task of planning the anti-bolshevik campaign.

Wipe Out Trade Grants
"I am organizing here in Paris a civilized government for Russia—an exile administration you might call it. I have called in all the anti-bolshevik leaders. We will overthrow the soviets.

"One of our first acts upon regaining power will be to make a clean sweep of all soviet trade agreements." This includes the Kamatchka concessions granted the American syndicate headed by Washington D. Van derlip of Los Angeles. Kerensky said foreign capitalists with unparalleled voraciousness were bent upon looting the natural treasure house of Russia. Only a major military victory over the bolshevik will save Russia from these, he said.

He expressed confidence that the military plans he is making will surprise the world when their full force is revealed, hinting that he had the backing of powerful governments.

As he talked, Kerensky was frequently interrupted by messengers and by telephone calls. His headquarters had a hum of activity. Kerensky himself was smiling optimistically.

Recover Lost Land
"The soviet regime may survive for some time yet," he said, "because we must be given a chance to organize before making our combined assault. But our program will go through. One of our first steps will be re-establishment of great Russia. We must have back the territory taken from Russia as a result of the war.

"United States capitalists should beware entering into bargains with the soviets. The United States should avoid negotiating treaties with them. All these agreements will be swept from the board when the bolsheviks are turned out.

"When we return to power, perhaps we will grant some concessions in exchange for help from America. But we never will sign grants so damaging to Russia's interests as this Siberian concession to American capitalists represented by Washington D. Vandervlip.

"We do not object to trade with Russia at the trader's risk such as is now approved by the United States government, as that is beneficial to the Russian people. But formal treaties should not be signed.

"In our rectification of our frontier and reestablishment of great Russia, we expect to re-annex certain sections clipped off by the Brest-Litovsk treaty. We favor continued independence of Finland and Polish sections."

WOMAN GETS OUT OF BED AFTER 40 DAYS OF FASTING

Husband Wants Evangelist to Induce Mrs. Harrington to Start Eating.

By United Press Leased Wire
Danville, Ill.—Entreating the Lord to give her strength, Mrs. Sadie Harrington arose from her bed today—the forty fourth day of her hunger strike, to force her husband to join the Church of God—and walked unassisted to a chair in an adjoining room.

Mrs. Harrington who said "spiritual manna" is keeping her alive, sat up 15 minutes.

The disciple of the Church of God became so exhausted that she was helped to her bed by her mother, Mrs. C. B. Trueman.

In spite of her protest that she was feeling fine, it was easily discernible that Mrs. Harrington was much weaker today.

Reconciliation Only A Sham, Eloper Says

Mrs. Franzen Is Cast Out by Her Husband Because She Still Loves Affinity—Franzen Will Petition for Divorce.

By United Press Leased Wire
Madison—Reconciliation of the estranged honeymooners, Pierre Paul Franzen, of Highland Park, Ill., and Mrs. Charlotte Franzen, wife of Philip Franzen, Madison decorator, with their respective mates, was a sham, it was stated here today.

According to a story told reporters here yesterday by Mrs. Franzen, both her husband and her husband's brother, who she said was a secret pact at Chicago Sunday when they were supposed to have effected a reconciliation, where by Franzen and Franzen were to obtain divorce so as to allow the former to marry Mrs. Franzen.

Author's return to his wife and two year baby at Highland Park and Mrs. Franzen's return to her husband and adopted baby here, were subterfuges to enable them to get out of their present difficulties, she is reported to have said.

It was noted here today that Mrs. Franzen's departure yesterday for Milwaukee was caused by her husband's objection to her presence. Mrs. Franzen left, it was said, because the owner of the building in which they lived, told Franzen he would have to move if Mrs. Franzen didn't. In order to avoid further publicity, Mrs. Franzen decided to take a short trip.

MUST KEEP UP SHIP BUILDING UNTIL ALL QUIT

Secretary Daniels Urges Harding to Call World Disarmament Council.

OPPOSES NAVAL HOLIDAY

Cessation of Naval Building Would Breed Distrust, Naval Head Says.

By Ralph H. Turner
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels, before the house naval affairs committee today, advised President-elect Harding to call a conference of all nations for the conclusion of an agreement on disarmament.

"Harding should strive for such an agreement," Daniels said, "if the United States is not at once to become a member of the league of nations."

"Until that conference secures world agreement," he added, "let there be no cessation in building the ships already authorized by congress."

Daniels pointed out that under the naval act of 1916, Harding would have the power to invite all the governments of the world to send representatives to a meeting for the consideration of disarmament. He said Harding could act on March 6, "thus hastening the day when the taxpayers of this country can safely be freed from great burdens of war preparation."

President Wilson has not called such a conference, Daniels explained, because there is provision for disarmament in the league of nations and because the president "would naturally leave to his successor" the choice of the course which seemed wisest.

Daniels declared there are two courses open to the United States:

1—An agreement including all the nations for the cutting of armaments.

2—A policy of holding aloof, which would necessitate a navy equal to that of any other country, so that American sea power could command the respect and fear of the world.

Opposes Naval Holiday
Daniels said he opposed the idea of a naval holiday, asserting that to stop construction for a limited period "was like applying a poultice when surgery was required."

A naval holiday between Great Britain, Japan and the United States, he declared, would breed suspicion and distrust and would neither secure permanent reductions of armaments nor contribute to lasting world peace.

Daniels cited the proposal made in 1912 by Winston Churchill, then head of the British admiralty, for a naval holiday in Europe, saying it failed before it even started.

"We must have an international agreement," Daniels concluded, "or the United States must build a navy big enough to make a policy of isolation safe."

Other witnesses before the committee were General Tasker H. Bliss, one of the members of the American peace delegation, and former army chief of staff, and Norman M. Davis, acting secretary of state.

The league of nations opened the way to disarmament, Davis said, but the league appeared to believe that more was to be gained by disarmament unless the United States participated.

"We must either be in or out," Davis said.

"We can't take a defunct part in league disarmament."

Punish Great Britain By Making Ireland Dry

Dublin.—Prohibition as a reprisal against the British government was proposed today by the Westernport county council.

The council in a resolution urged that Ireland cease the use of liquor and tobacco. To do so, the resolution declared, would deprive the government of $20,000,000 in taxes annually. The council declared the plan workable and seriously urged its observance by all supporters of Irish freedom.

Meanwhile with the British authorities suppressing a number of outbreaks in the country adjacent to Dublin, "President" De Valera's first statement was before the public. It contained no hint of a peace offer but was a bitter refutation of British charges that De Valera had joined in plotting with the Germans during the war.

The "white book" issued Saturday by the government contained documents alleged to prove that De Valera had cognizance of the plot and that he personally drafted plans for the thorough organization of a republican army.

A document bearing on army organization was handed him, he said, by another Sinn Feiner. He tore off the signature, he declared, in order to protect the author should the paper fall into British hands.

De Valera from being the first announced since De Valera's return, the "President's" statement was regarded with interest as showing his bitterness against the British. Its tone was a surprise to those who had expected a conciliatory manifesto as his first offering.

Documents in the white book are untrustworthy, he declared, and form a "standard illustration of the British cabinet's manufacture of such plots."

"The purpose," he said, "obviously is to bring to play on the side of the authors of the present military frightfulness in Ireland all the prejudices and hatreds of the past war."

"The documents relating to me are examples of sheer audacity in lying, in which the British ministers have indulged in their daily statements regarding Ireland."

"It is designed to deceive their own people as well as foreigners."

Auxiliary police here were in possession of the North Union workhouse today, having repulsed an attack there last night by civilians. One of the attackers, James Farrell, was killed and another, Thomas Connolly, was wounded.

OPEN SHOP WAR GAINS SPEED AS EMPLOYERS MEET

Illinois Manufacturers' Association Denies Discrimination Plan.

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Lines were sharply drawn here today for the fight to extend the open shop to railroads and other branches of industry.

As the Illinois Manufacturers' association, leader in the open shop movement, began its annual meeting in preparation for the national open shop conference of great industrial leaders, to open tomorrow, leaders of the railroad unions continued presentation of their case to the federal railroad labor board.

William Butterworth, president of the National conference of the Manufacturers' association, today issued a statement in which he said charges made by B. M. Jewell, representing the brotherhoods, before the railroad labor board, of a wide spread plot to disrupt trade unionism, was evidently aimed at the conference of manufacturers' associations.

"Our stand for the open shop plan is on the basis of no discrimination between union and non-union employees," Butterworth said.

The railroad brotherhoods at the labor board hearing today continued substantiation of their demand that boards of adjustment in the railroad industry be national instead of local. If they are made national, it will give the unions their strongest card in the fight against the open shop movement.

The manufacturers' association conference tomorrow will plan a determined fight to have the adjustment boards made merely local in scope.

LUMBERMEN PUT HOUSE SHORTAGE BLAME ON LABOR

Lumber Prices Are Lowest Since Armistice But Wages Are Still High.

By Ralph F. Couch
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—More than 40,000 lumber manufacturers and dealers are now in a position to do more than their share in terminating the nationwide dwelling shortage, L. C. Boyle, of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, announced here today.

At the same time, justice department officials are conducting an investigation of high lumber prices which are blamed in part for the stoppage of building operations.

"Lumber prices are now lowest since the armistice," said Boyle.

"Prices have been slashed an average of forty per cent. Stocks of lumber are piling up and many mills have been forced to close for lack of orders."

"Now is the time to build if fair wage scales can be put into operation. Labor costs represent more than two-thirds of the cost of erecting buildings."

Boyle said lumber manufacturers are not anxious about the report sent to congress yesterday in which the federal trade commission charged that lumber manufacturers through trade associations control the output and prices of lumber throughout the entire country.

"Evidence presented Senator Childers' committee now investigating the lumber industry contradicts the charge of the federal trade commission," said Boyle.

Boyle also called attention to an investigation made last summer by the forestry bureau of the agriculture department which he said showed the real cause of high prices of lumber as being shortage of stocks.

MUST ENFORCE DRY LAW OR QUIT JOBS

Federal Prohibition Officers Instructed to Push Campaign Against Rum.

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—Stricter enforcement of prohibition laws and punishment of violators in the eastern district of Wisconsin on penalty of loss of their jobs was the word issued today to federal enforcement officers and others here today by Frank D. Richardson, prohibition enforcement director of the central district, according to information from reliable sources in the federal building.

Richardson came here after several thousand dollars worth of liquor shipped as merchandise, was unearthed in Chicago yesterday.

His visit led to the belief that he felt Milwaukee was the supply station for Chicago bootleggers and booze runners.

No inking as to whether further raids, similar to those conducted in Fort Lee, Wis., recently and in Iron Mountain, Mich., by Richardson's predecessor, Maj. Dalympier, were forthcoming.

Close to 300 liquor cases are before Federal Judge Geiger in federal court and before Federal Judge Landis, who is sitting on the federal bench at La Crosse. New grand juries are to be called in each city this month, and it is expected further booze investigations will lead to more indictments. A federal grand jury is expected to be called at Superior to take action against those arrested in the recent raids at Hurley.

SPEAKERSHIP RACE GROWING TIGHTER

Opponents of Riley Young Plan Coalition to Insure His Defeat.

Madison, Wis.—Race for the state assembly speakership, heretofore conceded to Riley S. Young of Darien, took on a lively aspect today.

Reports that Frank Hanson of Juneau county, and Wallace Ingalls, of Racine, were prepared to effect a combination to put the other over who they find they cannot win single handed, were spread and tended to the belief that Young's chances are not as certain as they were yesterday.

Despite this, however, the Young forces may there isn't any doubt of his ability to beat Hanson and Ingalls on the first ballot.

Senator Timothy Burke, of Green Bay, loomed up as the next president pro tem of the senate today.

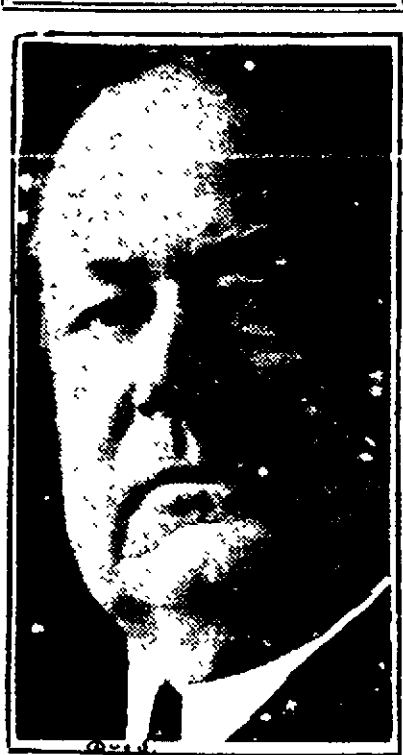

According to Senator Antonio Kueck, of Shawano, a careful canvass shows that Burke is certain to win. Senator George Skogmo, of River Falls, mentioned, was the most prominent mentioned.

Presidential committee selections were still a matter of conjecture today. The only name mentioned with any certainty came from the Young forces who declared that A. E. Mathewson, lawyer of Janesville, will be given the chairmanship of the house judiciary committee.

Selection of senate committee will be made by the committee on committees consisting of three senators.

Five senators were mentioned for places on it today. These are Senators Kueck, Skogmo, C. E. Bird, of Waubesa, R. G. Nye, of Superior and L. Anderson, of Menominee.

LOST AIRMEN REACH END OF LONG JOURNEY

American Balloonists Given Rousing Reception in Canadian City.

ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

Men Finish Long Trip in Good Spirits Despite Many Hardships.

By United Press Leased Wire
Montreal, Ont.—Lieutenants Kloor and Hinton arrived here this afternoon on board toboggans which picked them up on the trail from Moose Factory and rushed them here to catch the 4:38 p. m. train, eastbound.

Lieutenant Farrell remained with the original drivers and will reach here in ten or fifteen minutes. Hinton and Kloor seem to be in excellent condition and talked freely.

Lieut. Hinton agreed to the plan formulated by the railroad officials and the newspapermen here who wished to have them wait until tomorrow in order that the railroad could make proper arrangements for their direct transportation and the news men would be able to file a comprehensive story for their papers and get away for the east on the same train as the aeronauts.

Lieutenants Kloor and Hinton were dressed in the garb of the northern Indians who frequent the coast of Hudson and James Bay. Their heavy and upper portions of their bodies were covered by the hoods or suit which answers two purposes, that of breaking the wind and shedding rain.

God Was With Them
Crowley, La.—"God was with us and saved us from death after three days of hell and misery," Lieut. Louis Kloor, declared in a letter to his parents here in which he described the wanderings and the rescue of the American balloonists in the frozen Canadian wilderness.

The letter was written by Kloor at Moose Factory, Ontario, Dec. 21. In it, Kloor told the clearest and most vivid story of the adventure that has been told since the aviators disappeared over the icy city wastes of northern Ontario.

Kloor described how the balloon, after leaving Rockaway, was struck by a storm and swept rapidly northward "over fields, lakes and forests covered with snow and ice."

When they landed, the airmen did not know where they were, he wrote.

Their food was exhausted. They had no charts only a compass.

"We were wet and cold and hungry," he wrote.

"It was hell and misery."

JOHNSON TAKES UP DEFENSE OF PRIMARY LAW

California Senator Avers Forces of Reaction Are Getting Busy.

FIGHTS CONVENTION PLAN

Hiram Does Not Regard Election as Mandate to Return to Reaction.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.
(Copyright, 1921.)
Washington—Senator Hiram Johnson of California has declared war again. This time he is turning his guns "on the forces of reaction" which are aiming to eliminate the direct primary system and so back to the convention method of selecting party candidates. Mr. Johnson will go out on the stump and carry his cause to the people directly in the various states where the assault on the primary is greatest—New York, Iowa, Indiana and western states.

Senator Johnson sees in the attitude of Gov. Miller of New York and the utterances of other executives another attack on the primary system which he does not intend to pass by without a fight. He had warm words of praise today for the recent speech of Charles Evans Hughes defending the primary system.

"It was a brave speech for a man coming from New York to make," said the California senator, as he went on to discuss the citadels of "reaction" in America, and said that if the night against the direct primary were successful it would eliminate progressivism altogether in American politics. With the removal of the direct primary system and a return to the convention method, Mr. Johnson believes politicians will be able to do about as they please.

Many Faults Found.
"Unquestionably some flagrant faults have been found in the primary system, especially in the west where the Non-Partisan league has captured the well-advised names of the old parties and turned things upside down, but in the efforts to cure such a situation the foes of the whole primary system of nominations have come to the fore."

Modification and destruction, however, are two different things and the friends of the primary here are unwilling to admit that its ills are irremediable.

This is no sudden determination on the part of Hiram Johnson. He told the writer in Sacramento during the campaign that he was far from satisfied with the way many of the delegates to the Chicago convention last June disregarded the instructions of the people. He had very little comment to make about the way Senator Harding was nominated, for the California senator was engaged in the business of helping to defeat the prologue attitude of the Wilson administration. Now that the election is over and the republican party is in power, Mr. Johnson emerges with the cause of progressivism at his bosom clinging desperately to it to be sure in an age which he will admit is filled with powerful reactionary tendencies.

Reaction Is Strong.
"It may be that reaction is so strong with us," he said, "that the fight against it will not succeed, but I intend to do everything in my power to remind the people of what the reactionaries are trying to do to them."

Senator Johnson has accepted the results of the last election as a repudiation of pro-league policies and not as a mandate of the people to return to the reactionary ways and it is this viewpoint which he will express in congress when questions of taxation are actively under consideration. In his statement today moreover Mr. Johnson speaks of the "bitter, concerted movement against labor" as an accompaniment of the endeavor to take from all voters the right of nominating their public servants.

Battalion of Death.
The California senator, who is especially friendly to the cause of labor, is bound to be heard from when anti-strike legislation comes before the senate this week. The so-called group of "unreconcilables" which has remained a unit in opposition may be divided as the conservative eastern republicans part company with some of the western progressives but there is a chance that Senator Harding may lead a "battalion of death" before the senate and the opening of the fight by Senator Johnson on the direct primary system may be taken as an indication of further championing of progressive measures.

Senator Harding himself has been bound to a "conservative" line in the word from Marion Smith to a "battalion of death" in the word from Hiram Johnson to the direct primary system may be taken as an indication of further championing of progressive measures.

Fewer Stars Will Twinkle at a Good Deal Less Per Twinkle in 1921, Directors of Motion Picture Companies Declare.

By United Press Leased Wire
Los Angeles.—The day of fabulous salaries for movie stars, for extravagant productions of overpaid directors and executives is at an end, the chiefs of the great Los Angeles film colony agree today.

The last few months have seen a gradual change in the movie business, as in other lines, due to the general business depression.

As a result the movie chiefs have agreed that during 1921:

Fewer stars will twinkle.

Fewer productions will be released.

It will be conserved in writing salaries of screen favorites, as the figures will not be so large.

Thousands of cinema actresses have been thrown out of work. There has been a wholesale slashing of wages of those retained.

"Decrease in the attendance at moving picture houses has been the real cause of the upheaval," Marshall Neilan, producer and head of his own organization, expressed the opinion that the situation was only temporary.

"While it is to be regretted from the viewpoint of the players, it is a healthy condition for the industry as a whole," he said.

Many movie organizations have laid off practically their entire staffs.

Neilan said, and salaries have been reduced.

"Those salaries which have been inflated must be reduced," was the statement of B. R. Fineman, vice-president and general manager of the Katherine McDonald picture company.

Special Express Train To Valley Discontinued

Mail and Express for Appleton
Will Be Carried on Passenger Trains Now.

Notice has been received by the postoffice and the American Railway Express company that the special express train on the Chicago and Northwestern railway will run as far as Fond du Lac from now on. Lack of business is believed to be the cause.

This means that Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh and Green Bay no longer will receive a carload shipment of express and mail each morning. The train usually arrived about eight o'clock, bringing shipments from Chicago and Milwaukee terminals. The car was released during the day and sent back south late in the evening.

Morning express and mail shipments will be received on the north bound train at 8:40 o'clock from now on. Letter mail for Milwaukee, parcel post for Milwaukee and Chicago will be dispatched south at night on the 9:30 o'clock train. This train goes only to Fond du Lac, from where the special express train starts under the new arrangements. The shipments will be transferred at Fond du Lac. The change is regretted by the postoffice and express company. The postoffice received the bulk of its mail before the 8:40 o'clock train arrived and had it all assorted before the latter sacks came. Now the mail all comes in one delivery and congests the postoffice. The express company found the special car convenient, because shipments could be loaded direct to the wagons for distribution, saving one handling. Ample time was also given to load heavy objects like machinery. There is no assurance that the service will be resumed.

NEWSBOY SCOUTS TO HOLD MEETING

Post-Crescent Troop No. 9 Will Continue Instructions
Tonight.

Boy scout troop No. 9, composed of Post-Crescent carriers, is to meet at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Post-Crescent office. Many new candidates for membership are expected to attend. Full organization of troop will be completed.

E. R. Henderson, scout executive, expects to spend an evening with the new troop and give continued instruction in scout work. Games will be played and other features provided. The carriers have shown considerable enthusiasm for boy scout work and are already well under way on their training as tenderfoot scouts. The scout laws are applied to their work as carrier boys, making it a source of honor to give the best possible service on their newspaper routes.

Eighteen Lawrence college young men preparing for the ministry Monday organized a preachers' club under the leadership of the Rev. T. D. Williams, superintendent of Appleton district of the Methodist church. A committee consisting of Chester Hartlett, Wausau; Lawrence France, Plattville and Alfred Root, Appleton, was selected to prepare a constitution and select a name. Another meeting will be held at the class of this committee.

Paul Butler, Tennes Grove, N. J., was elected president. Ralph Holiday, Milton, is vice president, and Lawrence France is secretary-treasurer. Dr. Williams announced a prize of $25, donated by Mr. and Mrs. George A. Jacobs of Janesville, will be awarded in June to the member who prepares the best paper on "Why I choose the ministry for my life work."

Mr. Williams sounded the call for the meeting in an address to the students in Lawrence chapel Monday morning on "The Challenge of the Pulpit."

Y. M. C. A. BOYS FORM GOVERNMENT COUNCIL

Intermediate Boys of the Y. M. C. A. met Monday evening to organize and to elect members of the boys' division council, which is soon to be formed. Burton Manner was elected president; Eugene Cole, vice president; Wynand Bergner, secretary and treasurer. The three boys who are to represent the intermediate boys on the council are Eugene Cole, Allen

Winklerwerder and Wynand Bergner.

A committee was appointed to prepare a constitution and by-laws for the organization. Their report will be made next Monday, the night chosen for the regular meeting night of the body.

A wiener roast was held around the fireplace after the business meeting.

THRIFT SPEAKERS IN SCHOOLS NEXT WEEK

The thrift committee, which is preparing a program for the observance of National Thrift week, has made arrangements for a speaker to talk in all of the city schools on the life of Benjamin Franklin. Lectures will be given every day in the Vocational school. A speaker will talk at First Congregational church on community thrift.

CROUP

An attack of croup must not be trifled with. It comes in the dead of night when a doctor is not available. Vapor treatments cannot be depended upon to give results—you can't cut phlegm with vapor. Glessco is a croup remedy that has stood the test of time. For forty years it has proven effective in millions of American homes. It is safe, reliable and quick in action.

Glessco will relieve an attack of croup in fifteen minutes without vomiting. It carries the offending substances out of the system and does not upset the stomach.

Your druggist will tell you how many of your neighbors depend on Glessco as the reliable croup remedy. Sold by all druggists at 50c per bottle. It is worth ten times as much in time of need.

HELP OTHERS TO HELP YOURSELF, FARMERS ARE TOLD
Co-operation is Keynote of Addresses at Duroc Jersey Breeders' Dinner.

Cooperation of farmers among themselves, with their neighbors and with city folks was the keynote of addresses at a dinner for Duroc Jersey breeders at the Northwestern house Monday evening. About 30 farmers and six or eight members of Appleton Chamber of Commerce were in attendance. Representation of chamber of commerce members was disappointing despite the promises of some 25 or 30 men that they would be present.

Speakers were Prof. M. H. Scott of the University of Wisconsin; Leon Robin, livestock editor of the Wisconsin Agriculturist; L. H. Waite, mayor of Seymour, and O. P. Cuff, Hortonville, president of the Outagamie County Duroc Jersey Breeders' association, Mr. Cuff presided.

About half of the farmers in attendance lived in or near Seymour and a majority of the remainder were from Hortonville, Greenville and Dale. Mayor Waite asked that the next sale of Duroc Jerseys be held in his city and promised the erection of a splendid sales pavilion, well heated and lighted and large enough to accommodate an immense crowd. If Seymour is awarded the event, importance of pure bred stock raising in the development of a community was emphasized by Dr. Robin who declared that those nations and states which have achieved the greatest prosperity are those most thickly populated with pure bred stock.

Big Demand for Pork
Prof. Scott declared hog raising is the most profitable line of agriculture because of the tremendous demand for pork and the fact that pork can be produced much more cheaply than beef. Hogs cost less to feed than cattle and they produce more meat when slaughtered.

The speaker said recent reports showed a per capita consumption of 90 pounds of pork in the United States as compared with 54 pounds of beef and less than 90 pounds of beef, mutton and poultry combined. Slaughtered hogs dress about 85 per cent edible meat as compared with about 60 to 65 per cent edible meat in a dressed beef and only 50 per cent meat production of mutton.

Farmers were urged to select a type of hog which will be sold as butchers weighing about 150 to 200 pounds, running from lean to fat. Big typed Duroc Jerseys and Poland Chinas are the kind demanded by the market now, Mr. Scott said. When hard was selling at a high price the demand was for fat hogs but recently vegetable oils and oleomargarine provided so much competition that hard prices have fallen and the demand is now for large hogs with plenty of lean meat.

Large typed hogs are preferable because they can be forced fed without becoming too fat and ruining their marketability, Mr. Scott said. He argued it costs more to produce a pound of fat than lean meat and the price is less, therefore it behooves the farmer to guard against over-fattening his hogs.

Alfalfa for Pasturage
Use of alfalfa for pasturage was urged, Mr. Scott declaring experiments conducted in Madison proving alfalfa fed hogs returned larger profits than those fed in any other kind of pasturage. Corn is the desirable drylot feed because of its cheapness and its fattening properties. He urged the addition of mineral foods such as wood ashes, limestone and charcoal in order to build up bone.

If every farmer can increase the average size of pig litters by one porker this year the hog population of Wisconsin will increase 500,000, Mr. Scott declared in urging extra care for the brood sow.

LEAF LARD SALE
Thursday, Jan. 13,
10 ton of Leaf Lard,
14 1/2c per lb.
Hopfensperger Bros.

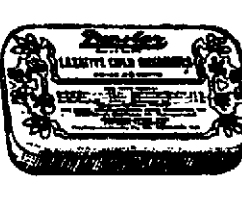

which is Waukesha county in Wisconsin—are noted for their purebred livestock and swine.

"Maximum farming efficiency cannot be achieved until you specialize in some kind of pure bred stock," Mr. Robin said.

Fifteen-cent pork before May 1 was predicted by the speaker. Farmers were urged to enlarge their swine herds now while prices are low so they will be in a position to sell when prices go up. Forty-five per cent less pure bred sows were bred in the United States in 1920 than a year ago and the demand for pork is increasing daily and resulting in price boosts, Mr. Robin said.

"There never was a better time for the young man to go on the farm than at the present," the speaker averred. "Prices of livestock and machinery are as low as they probably ever will go; plenty of help is available and prices for farm produce will soon increase. Now is the time to get started to be in a position to take the profits which are sure to come when business is more steady."

Farmers were advised to be careful their organizations do not attempt dictatorial policies in their relations with consumers. Farm organizations should consider education their first duty and he predicted their failure if they attempted to put the other fellow out of business. Cooperation, not elimination, should be the object of farm societies, he said.

Progress of L. R. Steel Co. Inc. Chain Stores

Following the incorporation of the L. R. Steel Company, Inc., late in 1919, executive offices were opened at business begun in the Lincoln Building, Buffalo, N. Y., early in 1920.

On March 1, 1920, the three Elgin stores located at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Port Jervis, N. Y.; and Danbury, Conn., were purchased.

On May 14, 1920, the Holworth stores, located at Milwaukee, Wis.; Detroit, Mich.; Oshkosh, Wis.; Danville, Ill.; Aurora, Ill.; Rock Island, Ill.; Moline, Ill.; Maysville, Ky.; Kendallville, Ind.; and East Palestine, Ohio, were purchased.

On June 1, 1920, the three Wilmer stores at Ottumwa, Ia.; Quincy, Ill. and Kansas City, Kan., were purchased.

On November 15, 1920, the F. E. Nelson stores, located at Concord, N. H.; Lowell, Mass.; Haverhill, Mass.; Manchester, N. H.; Cambridge, Mass.; Lawrence, Mass., and Nashua, N. H., were purchased.

Including the stores mentioned above an adding to them the several single purchases made during 1920, the L. R. Steel Company, Inc., presents what has been accomplished within the short space of time it has been operating and submits an outline of its activities for the coming year:

MILWAUKEE MAN SPEAKS BEFORE KAUKAUNA K. C.
A highly interesting account of his experiences in Europe was given by Oliver O'Boyle, Milwaukee, in an address before an open meeting of the Knights of Columbus at Kaukauna Monday evening.

Mr. O'Boyle was a member of the delegation of Knights of Columbus which went to France for the unveiling of the statue of Lafayette at Metz, Germany. He gave vivid word pictures of the scenes and events he saw, including a description of Metz, of the battlefield and of the visit of the delegation to Rome, where the party was received by Pope Benedict XV.

LABOR AND WAGES

While there have been reductions in wages, they have been to a considerable extent localized in the east and New England. Some men employed in the central states have voluntarily accepted reduced wages in order to keep the factories going. Some of these reductions have been in industries which were on war orders and which had elevated wages through the leeway given them by the government's cost-plus system of making contracts to a point which could not possibly hold. These wages had to come down, and wherever such industries elevated wages beyond the ordinary level they are certain to come down.

There were kindred lines of industry affected by the primary war industries, and in many of these wages also reached a plane which could not be sustained. However, we do not think there is a general desire on the part of capital to make any material reduction in wages. On the contrary we believe there is a desire to hold wages up to the highest possible point consistent with other costs and prices. There is a feeling among some labor organizations that employers are looking for excuses to force wages down, and while this may be true in some instances, we do not believe it is typical of employers in general. Most employers, we think, are seeking if possible to avoid reductions, and will only do so under the most urgent necessity and with the greatest reluctance.

It is possible for labor itself to have something to do with wage tendencies in the near future. Production must always stand as the basis upon which labor is paid. A man giving quality and quantity production in the highest degree will be paid more than the man giving production low in quality or quantity or both. Capital seeks production at the minimum cost. Costs can be lowered to meet reduced prices by increased and better production. If the working men of the country will grasp this fact and seek to give their employers 100 per cent output it will have more to do than anything with stabilizing wages and keeping them at a high level.

During the war there was in many industries much letting down of effort and zeal. It has continued since the war to some extent. It possibly proceeded on the theory that the less labor is done the more of it there will be to do. It is, of course, a false theory, for if more labor has to be employed to do a certain amount of work and to secure a certain production, labor will in the end be paid less. The doctrine of less work for more pay does not lead to economic advancement by either labor or capital. There is only one possible way to keep wages at the desirable high level to which they have as a whole risen and that is by increased production. Labor can make itself worth high wages through output and now is the time to do it.

GOVERNMENT PROPS

Apparently the experts agree that principle went overboard for the sake of expediency when the senate and the house rejected the president's veto of the resolution reviving the War Finance corporation, for Democrats joined with Republicans in the overwhelming vote. The majority of the country's financial opinion is said to have been in agreement with the view of Secretary Houston, whose argument before the senate committee received endorsement in President Wilson's veto, that the time has come to abandon the policy of putting government props under business. But congressmen, especially of the west and south, are less concerned about the fact that the people must pay for the propping than about satisfying the grain and cotton producers among their constituents.

Nobody argues that this new prop or the old props furnished under war conditions should have a permanent place in our system. It is merely that a congress readily responsive to the demands of producers does not agree with the president and Secretary Houston that the time had come to return or begin to return to correct principles. But if the time has not come for this, neither has it come for economy and reduction of taxes, reforms which in part will have to wait until the government ceases to give crop guarantees, gets out of the shipping business and finally withdraws from railroad enterprise. As long as particular groups of interests have to be served the people must pay for it.

TOWNLEY IN KANSAS

The state of Kansas is up in arms against the attempt of the Non-Partisan league to Townleyize that commonwealth. Beaten to a finish in his efforts to capture the government of Minnesota in the elections last fall, and with North Dakota turning against him in the face of financial chaos and bank failures, the originator of disguised socialism among the farmers looked for other fields. If he had his eye upon Wisconsin, where he received sympathetic cooperation by the radical politicians in the campaign, but the results of the election did not appear to convince him that Wisconsin was the proper state to invade. Perhaps he had heard of the marshaling of forces by the American Society of Equity to provide a warm reception for outside agitators and to openly fight the Non-Partisan league. At any rate he did not come.

Kansas evidently appearing to be in the ripest condition for this humbuggery, Mr. Townley hied himself out to the land of corn and sunflowers. But he didn't know as much about Kansas as he thought he did. He discovered that Kansas had taken part in the World war and that it knew the record of Townley and the Non-Partisan league during those critical times. He found there was Americanism in that part of the country—the kind of Americanism that had no use for half-loyalty and flirtations with disloyalty.

The American Legion, which is strong in Kansas, took cognizance of Townley and his outfit. It served notice on him that his invasion of the state is unwelcome and that it would oppose him. Townley came ahead and now the war is on. We do not know how it will end, although we have our ideas, but if the farmers of Kansas can be buncoed into joining the Non-Partisan league and selling themselves over to socialism after the exhibition in North Dakota they need something more than Townley to look after them.

The issue between the Non-Partisan league and American government is clear-cut. It might as well be fought out now as any time. The sooner the farmers of the Northwest are disillusioned about the policies and workings of this organization the better off they and the country with them will be. However, we do not believe many more will be deceived. The rampage up in North Dakota has been a wholesome object lesson. It has shown what the unsound theories of the Non-Partisan league when put into practice lead to. During the next few years we can look for a reaction against this socialistic experiment. In its place will spring up farmers' organizations founded on the true economic principle of cooperation and business efficiency as it relates to credit, marketing, costs, etc. This kind of organization will get the farmers more in one year than Townleyism can get them in twenty.

TODAY'S POEM

BENEDICTION

Just a word, fellow-sinners, while all of us stand
As the meeting's dismissed—
It is just as good exercise shaking a hand
As in shaking a fist.

The mills of the gods grind our errors to sand
And our truth is their grist.
Yet it's just as good exercise shaking a hand
As in shaking a fist.

A skull which is solid is seldom trepanned.
So delusions persist.
But it's just as good exercise shaking a hand.
As in shaking a fist.

We may not know just how the cosmos is planned,
Or the neighbors' subplot.
But we know man is wiser in shaking a hand
Than in shaking a fist.

The demagogue speaks and we bring out the band.
While the prophet is hissed.
Yet still choose your exercise shaking a hand.
Not in shaking a fist.

The wise, withered lips of the sybil are banned,
And the harlots are kissed.
Yet still let us exercise shaking a hand.
Not in shaking a fist.

The butt and the Burbank both spring from the land.
Yet we still must insist
It is just as good exercise shaking a hand
As in shaking a fist.

Health Talks

ABUSE OF THE EYES

Q: Does excessive reading injure the eyesight?
It does if the print is as small as most newspaper print. It does if the light is poor or not so arranged as to be outside of the direct vision of the reader's eyes. It does if the reader does not frequently interrupt his concentration on the page to look off at distant objects—objects more than twenty feet away.

Q: Is there any harm done by the habit of reading while lying in bed?
It is immaterial whether one lies abed or stands on his head to read, provided the light be correctly arranged and the reader interrupts frequently to look at distant objects.

Q: Please tell me whether one can strain the eyes by reading fast, that is to say, hurriedly scanning a paragraph or page, instead of carefully reading each word.

It is immaterial, so long as the other conditions are right, whether you read a single letter or a whole sentence or a paragraph at a glance.

Q: Just what is the best artificial light for reading and sewing?
Kerosene, gas or electric lamps, so arranged that the light shall fall in sufficient quantity upon the page or piece in hand without falling upon the reader's or worker's face. Let the light come over the shoulder, right or left as may be most convenient, and see to it that your face is mostly in shadow as you sit or stand at work. The source of light should be invisible as you sit or stand at work. It is a great mistake to resort to eyeshades to protect the eyes from glare rather than a proper arrangement of the source of light. Eyeshades are unhygienic in themselves, and of practically no value as a protection of the eyes.

Q: Are there anything more than imagination to warrant the notion that one's eyes may be injured by the glare of many mirrors and other shiny things in a place where one spends eight hours a day?
The effect of such glare may easily be injurious. Unnecessarily shiny surface, such as desks, woodwork and various fittings about a building, produce upon the face the same effect as would be produced by innumerable glaring little lights suspended within the field of vision, except that the light reflected by the shiny surface is diminished more or less in intensity. Eyestrain is unconscious with most of us, yet nevertheless we have it, because not one in one hundred individuals has perfectly formed eyes. One with an considerable degree of eyestrain may be made miserable by unnecessarily shiny surfaces.

Q: Kindly inform me whether there is any virtue or any particular objection to lights shaded with green or red shades or shades of other pronounced colors. What is the particular reason for the popularity of green shades over desk lights and other lights?
Green grass and green leaves make the lawns, fields and forests restful to the eyes or at least the green tint of Nature smiling is not painful to behold. But the real explanation of the restfulness of Nature's green is distance—of course it rests the eyes to look off at distant objects (objects more than twenty feet away).

Q: Can one from this there is no virtue in green except in imagination and as a rule it would be better to use a shade of light or neutral tint—light if it does not come within the direct field of vision as you work, dark or opaque if it does. It is rarely necessary to have the shade of the light within your field of vision and always preferable not to.

Red shades are an abomination to the eyes and most wasteful of light. Red shades should be left to the fire alarm signals and other danger lights.

Q: The shade of a lamp should be light in color, as translucent (not transparent) as possible, and not dark—that is, if the light is intended as a light not a decoration. It is merely a matter of taste if the light is used as a decoration, but red is terribly common taste.

Q: Does frequent attendance at the movies weaken the eyes?
Only when the film is so badly worn that it throws a picture that looks "rainy," or when the exhibitor is so inconsiderate as to speed the exhibition. Good moving pictures are nowadays no strain upon the eyes.

Q: Does it make any difference whether a reader sits erect or in a semi-reclining position when reading?
No. The idea that it is injurious to read lying down arises from the fact that physicians often forbid or limit reading when a patient is recently convalescent, because until he regains ordinary strength he may easily overdo with his eyes and strain them.

Fur and Sentimentality

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—Much attention was attracted recently by a cartoon which depicted a fashionable woman clad in fur, caught in a steel trap and gragging herself painfully across the chest.

Haskin

This is the kind of sentimentality that still makes a hit with a large part of the American public, despite the fact that it is as alien to common sense and the facts of the case as a nightmare. It is in the same class with the persistent attack on the use of living animals for scientific experiment, which involves the sacrifice of the lives of the preparation of the use of animals in the preparation of serums and antitoxins alone would cost thousands of human lives the first year it went into effect.

The fallacy underlying all of these sentimentalities about the killing of the lower animals consists in the failure to recognize the fact that man is a carnivorous animal who lives by killing, and whose only alternative is to be killed himself, directly or indirectly. It is our inevitable destiny, as the species of mammal which dominates the earth, to kill all other living things in order to maintain that domination. And it is our duty as civilized men to kill as cleanly and painlessly as we can. But the sentimentality which shrinks in horror from killing is a symptom of race degeneration. The sentimentalist who would abolish all killing, lives only by the protection of those who are not so squeamish. If we all became sentimentalists on the subject, the race would soon disappear off the face of the earth. At least it would if we stuck to our sentimentality. As a matter of fact, we would probably revert to savagery and recover our lust for blood.

Is Trapping Necessary?
It may be objected that while killing in general is undoubtedly necessary, the cruel form of killing represented by the catching of animals in steel traps is not necessary. But as a matter of fact it remains necessary until some other equally effective and more humane way of killing these creatures is discovered. And not primarily because we need them for fur. The fur problem is rapidly being solved by the raising of fur-bearing animals in captivity. Already the ranch-raised fox and skunk furs are standard commodities, and a great variety of other fur-bearing animals are being raised in small but growing numbers. The ranch-raised fur is better in quality than the wild fur, and it is bound to improve enormously as the methods of selective breeding are applied to these creatures. Consider what man has done with the dog, producing from one or two parent stocks a great variety of creatures, varying in size, form, color and coat. There is no reason to doubt that some of the fur-bearers will be equally improved. The fur farmer will put the trapper out of business. The trapper will no more be able to compete with him than a man with a shot gun could compete as a food-producer with the owner of a well-stocked poultry farm. Fur will then be produced humanely, at least in appearance. If given his choice, the fox would rather run all his life and be drowned in a bucket. But at least there is nothing about fur-farming to outrage the sentimentalists.

Animals Must Be Killed
The trouble is that the trapping will have to go right on. If trappers in almost every county in the United States did not wage ceaseless war on the predatory animals, no sort of stock-raising would be possible anywhere. These animals, unchecked, would reach an astounding abundance. It would be as impossible to raise chickens in an ordinary farming community as it is now to raise them in a complete wilderness. Already the taxpayers of the nation, cooperating with those of a number of western states, are maintaining a little army of Government trappers to keep down the coyotes, wolves and panthers in the West. When the private trappers go out of business, as they probably will, it will be necessary to extend this army enormously. The foxes, skunks, raccoons and weasels would make life just as hard for the farmer in the East as the largest beasts do in the West, were they not kept down.

How Trappers Work
Perhaps the sentimentalists who campaign against trapping and wearing of fur can suggest some better way of killing these animals than trapping. If so, they should come forward. These creatures cannot be shot because they are nocturnal in habit. Poison is a less sure and often a more painful way of killing them than trapping. And the trapper makes his trapping as painless a business as possible because a frenzied animal is apt to injure its own fur. Traps for aquatic animals, such as muskrat and beaver, are nearly always set attached to a sliding pole in such a way that the trapped animal is dragged under water almost immediately. The trapper goes to his traps as often as possible because he knows some wild thing is apt to find the quarry and devour it. He makes the business as quick and painless as he can, because it pays to do so.

A good example of what happens when a fur-bearing animal, or any other creature, is completely protected, has taken place in the West. In several western states the beaver was nearing extinction, and so laws were passed protecting it for a number of years. No doubt the laws were broken a good deal on the sly, but at any rate the beaver have increased greatly.

Now the beaver is one of the most harmless and friendly creatures in the woods. He kills neither flesh nor fish. He eats no growing crops. He lives on the bark of trees, and the trees which furnish his favorite food in the West are mostly of no timber value. But the beaver will build dams, and he will build them wherever you let him. In many parts of the West he has built dams in such a way as to flood whole farms and destroy whole crops, leaving men poor. It then becomes a case of kill the beaver or starve the man. The state game wardens are kept busy signing special permits for trapping beaver where they have seriously interfered with farming or made it impossible.

It is too bad that you can't go out and reason with the beaver, but the fact remains that he is guided wholly by instinct and quite devoid of reason. You might as well try to reason with a sentimentalist.

THE QUESTION BOX

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Can Easter lilies be grown from seeds? M. T.

A. The Department of Agriculture has been conducting experiments along this line and finds that it is feasible to propagate the lilies from seeds. They can be brought to full flower within 15 months of the time of planting and are found to be almost free from diseases which infect foreign bulbs.

Q. How many bushels of corn were used for distilling before the Prohibition Amendment and since? S. A. W.

A. During the year 1917, 38,972,266 bushels of corn were used for distilling and brewing. In 1918, the amount fell to 14,544,545 bushels and in 1919 only 3,590,347 bushels of corn were so used.

Q. What part of all the fresh water in the world is contained in Great Lakes? E. C. D.

A. The Hydrographic Office says that an exact computation of the total amount of water in the world has not been made, but it is estimated that less than one-tenth of one percent of the fresh water is contained in the Great Lakes and their tributaries.

Q. Does it make any difference whether stove wood is dried under cover or in a pile out of doors? A. J. B.

A. There is no appreciable difference in stove wood that has been dried under cover and that dried out of doors.

Q. What causes the recoil of a Browning machine gun, the expansion of powder gas of the thrust of air after the gas leaves the barrel? J. Q.

A. The War Department says that when a Browning machine gun is fired, the recoil of the powder gas is caused by the expansion of the powder gas. The barrel of the gun recoils 1-16 of an inch before the bullet leaves the muzzle.

Q. Can the scent glands be removed from skunks? M. C.

A. This operation can be performed with little danger when the skunks are four or five weeks old. It is not necessary to remove the scent sacs from skunks that are being raised for the fur market. If they are kept as rat and mouse destroyers it is advisable. Skunks are far superior to cats as mousers if those glands are removed.

Q. What is the highest altitude reached by any railroad? R. T. R.

A. The railroad from the Multa River in Chile to the Potosi in Bolivia reaches an elevation of 15,000 feet, this being the highest altitude reached by any railroad.

Q. What is Brazilian grass? E. W.

A. This is a name incorrectly applied to a substance used in the manufacture of a cheap kind of hats known as Brazilian grass hats, and also as chip hats. It consists of strips of leaves of a palm, which are imported to Great Britain and elsewhere for this manufacture, chiefly from Cuba.

Q. Do all diamonds have what is termed a pinhole in the center of the stone? A. H. B.

A. The Geological Survey says that the culet point on the bottom of a stone appears only on those cut in a certain fashion. An uncult or table diamond would not have it.

Q. What are "Days of Obligation"? M. T.

A. These are festival days upon which it is obligatory for those of Catholic faith to attend Mass.

Q. How many children have a King and Queen of England? F. A.

A. There are five living children in the royal family, the youngest, Prince John, having died in January, 1919.

Q. Who is called the Washington of South America? F. J. T.

A. This title has been given to Bolivar Y. Ponte, a South American patriot who was called the "Liberator."

An ardent advocate of liberty, he assisted Venezuela, New Granada, now Colombia, Peru and Bolivia in their early struggles for independence.

ENGLAND IN GRIP OF DRUG TRAFFIC

Chinese Are Adept at Smuggling Forbidden Drugs into Britain.

By Milton Bronner.
(Special to Post-Crescent.)

London—While fighting for her life during the war, England seems to have been shell-shocked into an ever-increasing use of drugs.

In Limehouse district, which is London's Chinatown, drug traffic has grown to such an extent that Chinese men will take long chances at smuggling—and they are slipping in drugs in great quantities.

Recently a Chinaman arrived on a ship from the Orient, wearing shoes with higher heels than usual. He was searched. In each heel was a spring door, inside of which was found two ounces of opium.

Several white men were haled before police court charged with having 20 ounces of morphine, enough to kill 20,000 persons. Others arrested were charged with having hundreds of tubes of cocaine and other narcotics.

Authorities are convinced there is a center for drug traffic located in Belgium or France. In a suitcase of a man, staying at a fashionable hotel, they found a letter which said in part:

"It needs five or six very discreet and very sober intermediaries to handle the peddling part of the business. A fool, a chatterer, a drunkard, a gambler, or a user of it are not good fellow workers. They must be chosen for silence, rapidity of thought, action and their knowledge of bona fide users."

The youngest written about yesterday is a very bright London street Arab. He has worked in almost every restaurant and hotel in London and knows all the reputed users of the stuff, both men and women.

Another letter emphasized that, "as the cocaine supply is coming direct from the manufacturer, it is most important to organize sales in small packets weighing about 15 grains. This means about 3 grains of pure cocaine can be added to 12 grains of impure."

There is probably no place on earth where tobacco is more universally used than here. Theaters, restaurants and subways allow it with both men and women.

In the old days the English railroads labeled the coaches in which smoking was allowed. Now they label those in which it is not allowed.

Business Meeting
The regular quarterly business meeting of Mount Olive English Lutheran church was held following the morning service Sunday. Reports deferred from the annual meeting were read and accepted. The treasury was found to be in excellent condition. Discussion of plans for the interior of the new building took up part of the time and several other matters were brought up.

CHRISTY WINNING FIGHT FOR HEALTH

Famous Baseball Star Is Waging Grim Battle Against White Plague.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Saranac Lake, N. Y.—Christy Mathewson is fighting a "pitcher's battle" with death—and winning.

Time was not so long ago when the famous baseball star, athlete, soldier and champion of clean sport used to step out on the diamond and battle backed by the cheers of thousands.

Today he is making his fight with only the doctor, his wife and little son beside him to cheer him on.

Five months ago Mathewson was taken down with tuberculosis. He came here to fight his way back to health.

While a whole world full of lovers of clean sport is pulling for him, his doctor, E. N. Packard, gives out this statement:

"Christy is getting along as well as can be expected."

Matty's wife and 10-year-old Matty Junior are full of confidence. Says Mrs. Mathewson:

"There is nothing to the reports that my husband is sinking rapidly. Nor is he recovering rapidly. It will be a long and hard fight. But we all are confident Christy will win eventually."

"Two weeks ago he did not feel quite up to his usual condition, but he is coming along nicely now."

No visitors are allowed to see Matty. "If I let one in, there'll be hundreds trying to see him," says Dr. Packard.

One of Mathewson's lungs has collapsed, but the other is functioning all right. He doesn't have much to say, but he's all optimism.

"Give my New Year greetings to all my friends," he requested Dr. Packard.

The sick star gets a lot of pleasure out of having his son read to him, particularly baseball articles.

Mathewson's baseball career started in 1896 with the Keystone Academy, as pitcher. In 1899 he pitched for Bucknell University; then went to the Norfolk team of the Virginia League and joined the New York National League in 1900. For 15 seasons he was a Giant star and earned the title of the most dependable pitcher of the team. He became an idol to the baseball world.

In 1916 Matty was traded to the Cincinnati team, of which he was made manager. During the war he enlisted in the chemical division of the army and won a captain's commission. On his return from France Matty became coach of the New York Giants.

Pythian Sisters Install
Pythian Sisters entertained members and their families at a 6:30 o'clock dinner Monday evening at Castle hall. The dinner was followed by installation of officers. The installation was carried out by Mrs. Lulu Mackbert acting as grand chief assisted by Mrs. Agnes Whipple as grand senior and Mrs. Mary Partey as grand junior.

The following newly elected officers were installed: Most excellent chief, Mrs. Bertha Ashman; senior, Mrs. Louis Schmidt; junior, Mrs. Laura Pierce; manager, Mrs. Elizabeth Engel; mistress of records and correspondence, Mrs. Adelle Ewen; mistress of finance, Mrs. Elsie Welsgerber; protector, Mrs. Bertha Kuehler; guard, Mrs. Marion Arnold; past chief, Mrs. Mary Eschner; pianist, Mrs. Emaline Maesch; captains of the degree staff, Mrs. Rowena Downer and Mrs. Adelaide Drudy.

The installation ceremony was followed by an address by the most excellent chief, Mrs. Mary Eschner. Plans were made for an open card party to be held at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Jan. 20, at Castle Hall.

Wedding Anniversary.
A dinner and reception was given Sunday by W. C. Mollen of this city and John R. Mollen, Neenah, at the home of the former, 633 Mason street, in honor of the thirty-fifth wedding anniversary of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Mollen. A musical program was rendered, consisting of vocal and instrumental selections by members of the family. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Gehrmann, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ames and daughter, Edith; Miss Pauline Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mollen, son, William, and daughters, Dorothy and Mary Jane; Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. John R. Mollen and daughters, June and Annette, Neenah.

Sorority Program
The following program was presented at the Sigma Alpha Iota sorority musicale Monday evening at Lawrence Conservatory to which the Woman's Club Chorus was invited:

"Fourth Mazurka".....Goddard
"Mother of Mine".....Burleigh
"I Love You".....Grieg
"I Know a Lovely Garden".....Hart
"The Cuckoo Clock".....Grant Schaefer
"Who Knows".....Ernest Ball
"Her Gift".....Lindberg
"The Chase".....Moskowsky
"The Juggler".....Moskowsky
Miss Viola Buntz

The program was followed by an informal hour after which lunch was served.

Fortnightly Club
Fortnightly Club will meet Wednesday with Mrs. Wilmer Schlager, 623 Drew street. Roll call will be answered with facts or quotations from Reuben Gold Thwaites. Miss Mabel Walters will read a paper on conservation of natural resources, state parks in Wisconsin, forestry, conservation of other natural resources and our rapidly vanishing wild life. A reading from "Hiawatha" by Longfellow will be given by Mrs. Frank Harriman.

Install Officers
Newly elected officers of Sacred Heart society were installed at the regular monthly meeting at the club rooms Sunday afternoon. They were Frank Schrimpf, president; Alex Laur, vice-president; Adrian Paas, Jr., recording secretary; John E. Hantschel, financial secretary; Antone Boehmlein, treasurer; Oscar Dohr, trustee; John Knulft, messenger; Adrian Paas, Sr., marshal; George Weinfurter, banner carrier. The Rev. F. L. Ruessmann acted as installing officer.

A large number of members decided to take advantage of the Class B benefit plan, which went into effect January 1, 1921.

Plans for a card party in the near future were discussed and other routine business transacted.

Church Elects Officers
F. A. W. Hammond was elected senior warden at the annual parish meeting of All Saints Episcopal church Monday evening. Other officers are: Junior warden, Seymour Gmeiner; vestrymen, Fred Bushey, L. A. Buchanan, K. S. Dickinson, A. Henry, R. Hackworthy, and Fred B. Schlitz; clerk, L. A. Buchanan; treasurer, P. S. Dickinson; delegates to the diocesan council at Fond du Lac, A. Henry, L. A. Buchanan; alternates, Worth Bushey and Seymour Gmeiner.

Plan Another Party
The Sports Council of the recreation department of Appleton Woman's Club will have an important meeting at 7:15 o'clock Tuesday evening at the club rooms. Plans will be discussed for the next dancing party which will be Jan. 21. Suggestions and ideas for the next semester schedule and the summer work will be brought up and discussed.

In the far western states along the coast and all the southwestern territory, hot tamales are a most popular viand. Hot tamale wagons stand on many corners and do as rushing a business as the waffle and "hot dog" sandwich wagons of the middle states.

Hot tamales are served at luncheons at mid-day, 4 o'clock, teas, and at midnight suppers. They may be bought of a fancy caterer or "picked up" at the nearest tamale wagon. Reheated in a steamer, the effort of serving them is nothing.

But one may make her own tamales if she will. This recipe is one that an old Mexican woman used for years without number. She said the secret of the unusual deliciousness of her tamales was due to the cummin seed.

HOT TAMALES
1 large chicken
yellow corn-meal
1 hot pepper
salt
pinch cummin seed
The Mexican cook said, "use an old rooster, dress it, cut it up and cook it in enough water to cover." Personally I should say that a hen about a year old or a rooster the same age would make better tamales than an "old rooster." When the chicken is tender drain off liquor. Take the meat from the bones. Add enough corn-meal to the stock to make a fairly thick mush. Salt to taste. Grind meat and pepper. More peppers may be used if a "hot" tamale is desired. Put a pinch of cummin seed in a cloth and crush it. Mix seed well with meat. Corn shucks or squares of cheese cloth are spread with the mush, the meat is put in the center of each shuck or square and small rolls are made. If corn husks are used several layers of husks covered with mush are tied together with the meat in the center. Steam 15 minutes.

Menu for Tomorrow
BREAKFAST—Grapefruit, broiled salt mackerel, hashed brown potatoes, graham gems, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Vegetable soup, toasted muffins, Brown Betty, tea.
DINNER—Lamb pie, scalloped potatoes, stewed tomatoes, lettuce salad, rice pudding, coffee.

I've thought this over by day and night. And I know that the modern pattern about love is pretty hollow. I know this—that I can't help Jim to cheat his wife. And I can't help cheating her—I couldn't love him."

"We were apart for a long time. Modern criticism dwindled to insignificance before the one great fact which I had, at last, to tell Deborah Burns. Finally I summoned all my courage. "Would it make it any easier for you, Deb, to know that Ann—that the senior Lorimer—her is destined to come to Ann's house?"

Irving A. Minton of Clintonville, spent Monday here on business.

I thought that poor Deb was only one of many lovely girls caught up and tossed about in the swirl made by the meeting of old and new ideas about love. Deb was defiantly conscious of her right to act according to her own emotions. She was quite as conscious of the traditional check which a woman possessing a heart and a brain and soul is supposed to place on love—when it proves illegal.

"Jane, you understand everything. You will not be shocked when I tell you that I'm sorry—sorry that I have so many principles—inhibitions I suppose I should call them."

"Goodness," said myself to myself. "I've often felt just that way! But I don't believe I'd dare own up to anybody! I wonder if a lot of us nice respectable women don't hate the inhibitions which restrict them."

I began to have rather a chilly feeling down my spine. Was Deborah Burns, the finest girl I ever knew in my life, going to act according to her very proper inhibitions, or was she going to discard them like a typical greenwich villager, and follow the law of her own temperament? Deb's next words were more astounding than her last:

"Jane, I actually reason to myself, that if I took Jim, as I can, I wouldn't be robbing his wife of anything she ever had! The sympathies he and I share—the tastes—perhaps the entire scale of our emotions are quite outside anything she is capable of experiencing. She can never arouse the best in Jim—never can share his ambitions—his emotions. If I can—"

"Pardon me, Deb, but isn't that the usual patter in irregular love affairs? I've read the same defense in a dozen

THE BOOK OF DEBORAH

"Some women would take Jim away from his wife—but not you, Deb?"

"Don't be too sure of me and my virtue! Love has its rights—isn't that the popular up-to-date doctrine? I've discovered that Jim has never put away his old love for me so why should I stand aside and let it all pass? Students of the mind have been saying lately that we all hide our most intense wishes even from ourselves! They say that many human beings camouflage their sincerest feelings. You know the wisdom of the modern writers, Jane?"

"I've read a lot of them," I admitted.

"You know that the one chance of any great happiness I am ever to have in this world is in the love of Jim Lorimer. It is mine—mine—if I reach out my hand, I can take it!"

There was an old thrill of triumph in Deb's soft voice. I suppose no woman madly in love would have been able to control that revealing quaver.

BLAINE TO READ FIRST MESSAGE THURSDAY NOON

Considerable Time Will Be Required to Organize Wisconsin Legislature.

Special to Post-Crescent
Madison.—Although the formal opening of the fifty-fifth regular session of the Wisconsin legislature does not occur until noon Wednesday, most of the members were in Madison today. Looking for rooms where they will live during the session and getting a line on the status of affairs politically before the caucus tonight.

Many of the old members arrived Monday, coming early to avoid the rush for rooms, and to size up the situation. When questioned as to the probable officials, committee appointments, etc., the answer was almost invariably the same "I came down early to try to learn something."

Senator Anton Kuekuk, Shawano, was one of the presidential electors who cast his vote in the electoral college Monday, while Senators Staudenmayer, Severson and Al C. Anderson came in early and watched the voting, as did Col. O. G. Munson, chief clerk of the senate for the last decade and who will undoubtedly be re-elected to that office tomorrow without opposition.

Former Senator Frank H. Hanson, mayor of Mauston, who returns to the legislature as a member of the assembly and who is a candidate for speaker, was another early arrival. He refused to discuss his chances of selection in the caucus tonight, declaring the members were not committing themselves and it was "anybody's office" so far as he was able to learn. It has now been definitely decided that no attempt will be made to have the two houses meet in joint session to hear the governor's message before Thursday morning. With nearly seventy new members of the assembly it will take several hours to organize the lower house Wednesday and the members are opposed to night sessions at the start.

Following the caucuses tonight when the republican members of each house will select their officers, the legislative session will be formally and officially opened at 12 o'clock noon Wednesday, when the chief clerk, the only hold over officers, will call the roll. With 100 members in the assembly this will take considerable time but the voting machine cannot be used until the seats have been assigned and the wires connected.

After the calling of the roll the Chief Clerk in the assembly and the lieutenant governor in the senate, will call for nominations for officers and the caucus nominees will be formally elected. It is generally conceded here that the old officers will be re-elected in the assembly with Riley S. Young, Daren, chief clerk; and T. G. Cretney, Madison, sergeant-at-arms. In the senate Col. O. G. Munson will be re-elected chief clerk and probably

ISAAR CHEESE MAKER WEDS SEYMOUR GIRL

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Isaar—Jesse Genevieve Flanagan and Robert La Blom of Antigo spent the past week at the home of Barney Flanagan.

Miss Edna Snell, Miss Rena Brady and Frank Snell were callers at Green Bay, Thursday.

Dr. Bosson of Seymour was a professional caller here, Sunday.

Albert Schneider of Chesham was a caller here, Sunday.

Miss Edna Snell left Monday for New London after a two weeks' vacation.

Otto Wersch is home from North Crandon, where he was employed.

Miss Delores and Floyd Flanagan are all with pneumonia.

The Misses Mary and Adeline Lowenhagen, Ernest Lowenhagen and George Laubert were callers at Shawano, Saturday.

Oscar Anhalt has resigned his position as cheese maker in the Furrow cheese factory. He has accepted a similar position at Berghamton.

Mr. Anhalt was married to Miss Leola Eike of Seymour at Seymour on Thursday.

George and Edward Kobiack left for Lily, Wis., where they will be employed.

Many friends surprised Louis Giese on his birthday anniversary, Monday evening.

Miss Genevieve Flanagan, Robert La Blom and Raymond Flanagan were business callers at Mauston, Friday.

William Snell is on the sick list.

Louis Giese sold his cheese factory and farm to Henry Wolf of Seymour.

Mrs. Barney Flanagan, who has been ill for some time is slowly recovering.

Frank Ebert left for Michigan where he will be employed.

Miss Lillian Hansen is on the sick list.

Former assemblyman Frank N. Graess Sturgeon Bay, for sergeant-at-arms.

The members will then step to the desk of the chief clerk and sign the roll and be sworn in by Chief Justice, R. G. Siebeck and then the fun will begin.

The first choice in the selection of seats for the session and then the new members in alphabetical order of their counties or districts. This will take nearly two hours in the assembly and it will be nearly 5 o'clock before adjournment can be taken until Thursday morning, after adopting the rules of the last session.

EDISON PLANT IN NEW LONDON CLOSES

600 Men Made Idle by Business Slump—New Power Supply Soon.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London.—The principal topic of discussion here is the closing of the Edison Cabinet and Panel company.

More than 600 people have been employed at 100 of whom were women. At present the entire plant is closed down.

The Edison plant is said to have paid off the average of $5 per day to its laborers, and to those who did piece work the pay was much greater, sometimes as high as $12. About $800,000 was paid out in wages last year.

General manager McLaughlin and other officials will meet at Orange, New Jersey, this week to decide on re-opening of the plant.

Benson Dawson of this city, one of the G. B. & W. railway company's oldest employees has resigned. Mr. Dawson began work in 1871 and built the first bridge at Shiocton many years before the Green Bay road entered New London. Mr. Dawson has been foreman of bridge building and water supply crew, and during his many years of service has built and supervised the construction of many bridges and many miles of railroad. Officials of the road say that no accident on the road could ever be traced to Mr. Dawson's department.

"New London people will be using Appleton current about March or April," said Superintendent Danielson, while discussing the new power supply. The new high tension lines are completed as far as the local station, and as soon as the out door sub station is erected, the current will be turned on.

While Richard Learman was driving a wedge with a steel mallet, a small piece of steel became imbedded into his eye. He has had several operations but so far all efforts to remove splinter have been unsuccessful and he may have the eyeball removed. This would cause loss of sight. Richard is a son of Charles Learman.

Friends of John Carew, well known in this city, will be glad to know that he is improving in health since his removal to St. Elizabeth hospital, at Appleton, where he was taken last week. Mr. Carew suffered an attack of pleuro-pneumonia.

Victor Viel, fifteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Viel, who was very severely injured by an automobile about four months ago while coming to New London from Northport, has sufficiently recovered to be able to get around on crutches. He had his left leg fractured, knee cap lacerated, and was severely bruised about his body and face. He was at St. Elizabeth hospital in Appleton for about two months. Physicians feel that he will be slightly lame the rest of his life.

Edward Smith, for many years agent at the Green Bay and Western Junction depot here, has accepted a position at Green Bay in the headquarters of the G. B. & W. Ry. L. E. Johnson of Bessemer, Mich., came here this week to take the position made vacant by Mr. Smith.

Madison.—From a plant value of $35,597,553, in 1914 to $33,959,495 in 1919 is the growth of electric light utility business in Wisconsin as shown by the biennial report of the Wisconsin Railroad Commission.

Operating revenues showed a similar rapid growth. In 1910 they amounted to $4,442,930. In 1914 the revenues were $8,013,344 and in 1919 they had increased to $16,931,468.

The gas utilities showed a steady growth but not in any such proportion as obtained in the electric business. In 1910 the combined property and plant accounts of the gas utilities in the state amounted to $27,262,741 by 1914 had increased to $24,149,734 and to $20,869,929 by 1919.

Operating revenues for the gas industry in 1910 were $4,009,205. In 1914 they reached a total of $5,002,208, and in 1919 they amounted to $7,596,525.

The business of the water utilities in the state has also shown a growth although here too the rate of growth has been less than in the electric business. The plant investment of the water utilities in the state in 1910 amounted to $21,938,879. In 1915 it had increased to $23,550,167. The operating revenues for 1920 amounted to $1,170,633, and for 1914 to $2,467,401.

In 1915 there was a decline in revenue, followed by an increase in 1916 and 1917. In 1918 again showed a decline but by 1919 revenues had increased to $2,581,177.

Between 1910 and 1919 the amount expended in the telephone business in the state just about doubled. The increase was from an amount of $14,449,921 in 1910 to $21,695,924 in 1914, and to $22,542,772 in 1919.

Operating revenues increased a little more than 100 per cent during this period, growing from $4,171,156 in 1910 to $9,176,576 in 1919. However, the increase in return on their investment increased only about 40 per cent. In 1910 the total was $1,512,467 and by 1919 it had increased to only $1,411,226 although in intermediate years the total was higher. The effect of the very rapid increase in operating expenses is clearly shown in the net revenues for the year 1919.

The electric railways also showed an increase in investment and in revenues, although the increase here was not as rapid as in the case of the electric utilities. The property and plant accounts in 1910 totaled $51,148,324 and in 1919 the total was $54,714,942, or an increase of about 65 per cent. Operating revenues show the effect of increased rates of fare, many of which were effective during 1919. The total operating revenues amounted to $8,523,966 in 1910 and to $15,784,993 in 1919. Although the operating revenues show an increase in greater proportion than the increase in investment, the total operating rate and the amount available for return upon the property showed a decrease between 1914 and 1919. Between 1910 and 1914 the amount available for interest, dividends, and surplus increased from $3,343,618 to $3,878,504 but in 1919 it was only $3,048,547, or about 8 per cent less than in 1910.

It may be of interest also to note the number of customers served by those utilities whose business is such that a record of individual customers is available. In 1910 there were only 54,654 users of electric energy in the state but by 1919 the number was practically four times as great, being 214,931. In the gas business the increase was from 126,826 in 1910 to 207,895 in 1919.

GREENVILLE YOUNG WOMAN WEDS IN HORTONVILLE

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Hortonville.—Last Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock a wedding was quietly solemnized at the Methodist parsonage when Miss Lydia Brown of the town of Greenville became the bride of Milo Jack of the town of Ellington.

Mrs. West Wright and Miss Florence Shaw acted as witnesses. The Rev. J. R. Shaw performed the ceremony.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Benjamin in Neenah, Wednesday, Dec. 29. The Benjamin's were former Hortonville residents.

George Jones injured his right ankle last Wednesday. He is now using crutches.

Last Wednesday evening Alice Behrend was surprised by the members of the choir of the Lutheran church. It was Alice's sixteenth birthday.

Games were played and a delicious lunch was served.

Mildred Steffen and Carl Schrollter of Appleton spent a few days at the Leonard Steffen home.

Joseph Birmingham was an Appleton visitor Wednesday.

Mrs. Herman Block of Nebraska City, Neb., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Robert Burns.

Myron and Lawrence Steffen spent Sunday at Appleton.

Mrs. A. J. Bigford is visiting at Appleton and Oshkosh.

Harvey Ouradnick returned home after spending his vacation at Keauau.

Herbert Kringle of Milwaukee is a visitor in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. William Strandt of Kearney, Neb., who have been visiting at the Herman Dobberstein home have left for Fond du Lac for a visit.

The Misses Mabel and Helen Morack were visitors in the village.

Arthur Clatten left for Madison where he is attending the University of Wisconsin.

TWO HIGH SCHOOL STARS SUSPENDED

Briese and Dunn Are Given Month's Lay-Off Because of Roughness.

When the high school basketball team lines up against Menasha high school team here Friday night it will be minus two of its good players. The game last Saturday night with the Appleton Crescents caused a peck of trouble and two of the high school players were suspended from the team for a month. Dunn, who is captain of the team and Briese, considered as one of the best players, are under the ban.

It is reported the boys on both teams played "dirty" during the whole game. One man on the Crescent team had been "spotted" by Dunn and Briese, and he was knocked about continually, it is said. It has been reported that the Crescent player's arm is broken.

Coach Vincent has not yet decided who will take positions on the floor next Friday night. He has a number of good men to choose from and he will undoubtedly consider his selection carefully.

A preliminary game is to be staged Friday night between a boy scout team and the Midlets of St. Aloysius Young Men's society of St. Joseph church. The preliminary game will start at 7:15 o'clock and the regular game will begin at 8 o'clock, regardless of the size of the crowd.

ROTARIANS CONSIDER CONVENTION AT FARGO

"On to Fargo" was the main topic of discussion at the Rotary club meeting Tuesday noon at the Y. M. C. A. It was a booster meeting for the 15th district Rotary convention which opens in March at Fargo, N. D.

A motion picture showing scenes in Fargo was exhibited through the courtesy of H. B. Frame and W. S. Ford. Indications are that a large delegation will attend the convention from Appleton.

The meeting was in the hands of the educational committee with Dr. M. J. Sandborn in charge. The time was limited so he was able to present only a small portion of the subject of "Relation of Employer to Employees."

MASTER BUILDERS GO TO STATE CONVENTION

Appleton will be well represented at the annual convention of the Wisconsin Master Builders' association in Janesville, Jan. 12 to 15. Four men will leave here Wednesday morning and others may go later. Those who have definitely decided to go are Martin Boldt, Henry Lauer, B. C. Koepke and Louis Waltman. Fred Lillie and Herman Hoeppner may also attend.

Boldt and Lauer are delegates from the Appleton Master Builders' association. Discussion of lumber prices and the labor situation will take up the greater part of the meetings.

Edward Luedtke, who has been connected with the August Brandt company for several years, has just been promoted to the position of foreman.

William Timm of the Northern Doller and Structural Iron Works, left Monday for a business trip to Vancouver, B. C.

P. N. Piette has returned to Berlin, N. H., and Fred Piette to Milwaukee, after attending the funeral of the late Arthur Kavanaugh.

Miss Mae Bestler returned Sunday from a week's vacation in Bear Creek.

HEROIC STUDENT SAVES CO-EDS FROM "BEAR"

The usual calm and peaceful aspect of Lawrence campus was changed to that of the wild jungles of Africa by the alien appearance of a grizzly, gaunt, hungry looking black bear which was discovered in front of Science hall one night by a freshman, who hurried to warn the fair coeds of the lurking danger.

Terrified and almost paralyzed with fear, they waited behind the barred doors. Bravely the hero rushed forward, prepared to strike the blow that would forever fell the foe. Slowly he crept behind the bear ready to spring at the proper moment. Bill! in a second it was over. Looking down upon the fallen beast, the hero met the blazy stare of the stuffed bear of the biology laboratory.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS FORM A GLEE CLUB

Twenty-seven Young Women Begin Preparations for Program.

Twenty-seven of the finest voices among girls of Appleton high school have been selected to form a glee club under the direction of Miss Ruth McNell. Try-outs have been held after school and the result was announced in the assembly period Monday. The first rehearsal was held at 3:45 o'clock Monday afternoon at which officers were elected. Miss Marjory Davis was chosen president with Katherine Wolf, librarian, and Dorothy Belling, secretary-treasurer.

It is expected the club will prepare an evening's program which will be presented toward the end of the year. Rehearsals will be held once a week.

Following is the personnel of the club:

First sopranos—Dorothy Murphy, Marjory Davis, Florence Torrey, Ann Dohearty, Mildred Zechelner, Franceline Lehman, Helen Schwartzburg, Katherine Pratt, Grace Janas, Dorothy Ralph, Helen Ornstein, Ruth Struck.

Second sopranos—Lenore Schwartz, Lorraine Falk, Agnes Sherman, Carolyn Trettin, Dorothy Peterson, Mary Thom, Kathryn Arnold, Katherine Wolf.

Altos—Loretta Maurer, Margaret Wadsworth, Genevieve Steffin, Marie Voeks, Dorothy Belling, Annette Brigham, Dorothy Adsit.

The "excuse" committee consists of Dorothy Peterson, Florence Torrey and Margaret Wadsworth.

FOND DU LAC COMPANY GETS STATE CONTRACT

Madison—The state board of control let a contract to the Immaculate Construction company of Fond du Lac for three new buildings at the state home for the feeble-minded at Union Grove, Racine county. Two buildings for inmates will be built, and also a refectory, the total cost to be $232,236. Work is to be started as soon as the contractors' bond is approved. This is the second state home for feeble-minded, and will supplement the work of the institution at Chippewa Falls.

The People's Forum

An Appreciation of a Versatile Friend

When, on the 4th instant, the report was received from his home in Philadelphia, that Ralph Pomeroy had passed beyond the golden glow of life's sunset, a large coterie of his old time friends in this city bowed their heads in mourning. Ralph was a product of Appleton. He was the son of Col. Henry and Mrs. Lavena Pomeroy. Col. Pomeroy before his enlistment in the war of the rebellion was an instructor in Lawrence University—now Lawrence College. He also published and edited The Post for a period of years. He was a gentleman of rare mental attainments and left the impress of his personality in every field of his activities.

Following his early and somewhat limited education it can be truly said that Ralph Pomeroy was a self-made man—a man of indefatigable industry and perseverance.

The attractive qualities that marked his riper years were characteristic of his youth and made him many friends. Endowed with a roving disposition, early in his teens, he entered the office of the St. Louis Southern Railway. The promptness with which he dispatched every duty assigned him brought a general letter of recommendation on his reliability addressed "To Whom it May Concern." For the three years following he was engaged in the service of The Fox & Wisconsin Improvement Co.

In 1881 he entered upon and mastered the "Art of Preservation" in the Crescent office of this city. Those were the days in which "four" printers were in vogue. So Ralph slipped his moorings and itinerated to Denver, Fort Scott, Kansas City, Sedalia, La. Crosse, Oshkosh, Poughkeepsie and Richmond, winding up with four years service in the government printing office at Washington. He worked on papers in each city listed.

Then, as it were, to make himself the cynosure of the migratory knights of dusty shoons, he enlisted and served through our war with Spain.

After all these outings Ralph was lured back, by fond memory of the old days, to the picturesque environment of Appleton. He was then engaged as city editor of The Post. He worked for and with the writer over three years—and they were enjoyable years. There were no weary hours, no aridity in our social relationship. Ralph was a diligent student. He read good books, analyzed public problems and took active interest in social and political issues. And it may be said, on his demise, that the best that was in him was still in reserve. Could he have reached three score years and ten, how beneficial might have been the remaining period of his life.

Alas, that the glories of our mortal state are but as a shadow. A man in the full vigor and power of his fruitful years is stricken by the hand of death. Rich in experience, his mind balanced, his brain well stored, it would seem as though our friend had hardly entered upon his career.

For several years before his death, Ralph Pomeroy held an important position on the Philadelphia Public Ledger. That he measured up to all requirements is not doubted by those familiar with his versatility.

The earthly remains of this companion of good fellowship were laid to rest yesterday, in Riverside cemetery—a way station in passing from this life to the promise resurrection. As the days go on, may there be reflected out of the chaos of grief, experienced by those closely related to him, the glory of immortality—the solace of an eternal reunion, when the sadness and sorrows of earth are forgotten.

The secret marks on Bank and England notes, by which forgeries are readily detected, are constantly being changed. The microscope reveals many such peculiarities to an observant eye.

EXPRESSMEN OPEN EFFICIENCY DRIVE

Proper Method of Handling and Wrapping Parcels Will Be Emphasized.

Announcement was made today by W. N. Kimball, Appleton express agent, of the inauguration of a nationwide movement in the express business to be known as the "Right Way Plan." The movement began Monday, and the purpose is to increase efficiency of express service.

H. E. Krause, one of the most experienced workers in the local express office, has been appointed by Mr. Kimball to carry on an educational program instructing local employees in the proper methods of handling every phase of the express business. Mr. Krause has arranged for a meeting of the Appleton express force on Tuesday and this meeting will be attended by prominent men in the express business who will set forth the correct principles of handling express matter.

This meeting will be held simultaneously with others throughout the country and will introduce the plan, which has been adopted as a primary educational policy of the express carrier. It is expected all classes of express workers will be reached by the plan, including vehicle men, platform employees in terminals and railroad stations, express messengers, waybill clerks, salomen, checkers and office workers generally.

The cooperation of the express shipper of Appleton will be enlisted in the movement. Special emphasis will be laid on what is called the "right way" of starting express shipments, with an explanation of the packing and marking regulations, the correct method of filing claims and for sending shipments C. O. D., as well as other subjects of interest to every express shipper.

Deaths

HERMAN REHWINKLE
Herman Rehwinkle, 79, a resident of the town of Liberty for many years, died Sunday at the home of his son Henry in Oshkosh. The body has been conveyed to Hortonsville. NEENAH COTTAGES ARE INFESTED WITH TRAMPS

Neenah—Tramps are evidently solving the housing shortage by making use of unoccupied cottages along the lake shore. Owners of several of these summer abodes have reported to the police that the cottages have been broken into during their absence and although apparently nothing was taken windows and doors have been damaged by the forced entrance. The cottages owned by H. F. Anspach, J. F. Brown and George Christoph, located on the west shore of the lake three or four miles south of the city have been raided lately, evidence shows.

FEAR LID WILL BE CLAMPED ON CUBA

Islanders Are Not Yearning for Enforcement of Prohibition.

Special to Post-Crescent
Havana, Cuba.—Cubans see the possibility of another intervention in the island by the United States.

"They look for action after President-elect Harding takes office. Reasons: Political conflict, the moratorium, refusal of some Cuban merchants to accept goods ordered from the United States, and kindred troubles.

Many Cubans would welcome having Washington straighten out the island's involved finances but few yearn for the same forces that have put across prohibition in the states to have a hand in Cuban affairs.

Disturbing Questions
If they ask, Harding should intervene—

Would Cuba's cafes be closed? Would the lid be put on Havana, refuge of the thirsty Americans? Would gambling be banned? Would the national lottery be closed?

Havana is feeling the effects of the crime wave which has gripped many American cities. Police are trying to solve two bathing beach murders, one case being that of an American girl found dead on a rock.

MOTHERS, DO THIS—

When the Children Cough, Rub Musterole on Throats and Chests

No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup or worse. And then when you're glad you have a jar of Musterole at hand to give prompt, sure relief. It does not blister. As first aid and a certain remedy, Musterole is excellent. Thousands of mothers know it. You should keep a jar in the house, ready for instant use. It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frost-bitten feet and colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

MUSTEROLE
WILL NOT BLISTER

Marquette — During the Christmas period, Mrs. Joshua Hodgins, Mrs. H. J. Brown, and Mrs. Ralph Skidmore, Marquette; Mrs. Nelson J. Ludington, Chicago; and Mrs. Earl Morgan, Oshkosh, daughters of the late United States Senator Isaac Stephenson, each presented the Stephenson public library with $50 for the purchase of new books.

A hand carved model of an old English sailing vessel, completely rigged, encased in glass, which for many years held a position of honor in the private office of the late Mr. Stephenson, has been presented to the library by the Stephenson estate.

PRINCE MAY CLAMP LID ON MONTE CARLO

Famous Gambling Resort Is Getting on Nerves of Monaco Ruler.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Monte Carlo—Guests at Monte Carlo hear it will soon pass out as the world's greatest gambling place.

The Prince of Monaco declines to discuss the story that he will convert Monte Carlo into a great pleasure resort with new features to replace gambling.

But intimates of the prince say he is weary of being the ruler of games of chance; weary of being blamed for the suicides that end the careers of unlucky plungers.

Many Fortunes Lost
Monte Carlo stands on an elevation above a Mediterranean bay nine miles from Nice.

The Casino, the gambling house to which Monte Carlo owes its fame, and the principally its revenue, is a splendid building set in beautiful gardens.

Here many fortunes have changed hands on the "chips that pass in the night." Rich men have come—and poor men have gone—many to death over "suicide wall" on a cliff above the bay.

In 1851 the Casino was leased for 50 years to Francois Blanc. After his death the control passed to a stock company.

May Break Contract
In 1893 the company obtained an extension of its concession to 1947 and engaged to pay the prince $1,000,000 or so a year.

To close the Casino the prince will have to break his contract. But he's supreme in Monaco, and neither France nor other powers could be expected to interfere on behalf of the gamblers' syndicate.

Besides, the prince is 72—and talking much of the time when he must face his maker.

BLAINE FIXES FEB. 2 AS PARDON HEARING DAY

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison, Wis.—Governor John J. Blaine today set Wednesday, Feb. 2, as the date on which he will hear his first applications for pardon, and announced that the first Wednesday in each month would be set aside for that purpose. So far no applications have been filed with the new Governor but it is expected that a number will be filed before the date of the first hearing, including an application for a pardon for Grace Lusk.

PIMPY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look.

MILLIONS DYING FROM HUNGER IN CENTRAL EUROPE

Central Powers Are Experiencing Blackest Winter in Their History.

BY LLOYD ALLEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
London—Central Europe is in the grip of the blackest winter in its history. Famine, cold and disease are decimating once happy populations at the rate of hundreds, sometimes thousands per day.

Millions are starving slowly. Their appearance is horrible to behold. They are not drying up into skeletons, like the famine victims of India and Armenia. These Polish, Russian and Austrian sufferers have "starvation dropsy." It is brought about by a most complete absence of albuminous elements and fats in food and the eating of unusual quantities of vegetables—grass, even—after which these bodies, marked for death, drink enormous quantities of water. A terrible heat results.

In these terror-stricken lands babies are born to parents who have not a single rag of garment with which to clothe them; they are wrapped in pieces of paper and perish from cold.

To travel through Central Europe is a nauseating experience especially to an American. The memory of famine districts can never be eradicated.

It is a series of startling visits to orphanages and refuges where scores of babies—many of whom will never walk because of aggravated rickets that twist little legs into corkscrews—drag themselves about filthy corridors like stricken animals.

There are two astounding features of this heartrending picture: First, is the outward cheerfulness of suffering nations where there is still hope that next month will see an improvement in their pitiable situation. Secondly, the reverence with which millions speak of America, where all dream of going and which all regard as the only "Land of Promise" left in the world. Because from America come food and funds for feeding nearly 2,000,000 children in the worst stricken lands of Poland, Austria and Czechoslovakia.

Two years ago statesmen of France and England feared general Bolshevik revolutions in the hungry lands. Today this fear is practically vanished. The object lesson of starving Russia under Red rule holds forth no hope to the hungry of Poland and Austria.

Danger may exist in the form of a Red invasion engineered by the Red Rulers at Moscow; but this threat is generally considered quite remote.

Poland, where the Americans are feeding 900,000 children daily, has seen further unheard-of increases in the cost of living. Prices have generally increased 4,000 per cent. Wheat alone has advanced 20,000 per cent, according to official reports. Central Lithuania is almost wholly without food.

Vienna however is by long odds the poorest pressed capital of Central Europe. Once the proudest most luxurious city of the continent it is today in a state of miserable pauperization, dying rapidly. Its fate, according to general prediction, is that of becoming an Entente Colony.

Today 2,000,000 Viennese are cut off from their traditional sources of food. With worthless Austrian kronen, the Viennese cannot buy from the plentiful food stocks of Serbia and the provinces of Jugoslavia from where, for centuries, the Vienna people secured fats and grain. In 1914 the kronen was worth twenty cents in American money. Today one kronen is worth a quarter of a cent.

Strange diseases have made their appearance in this once gay capital of the Hapsburgs. Hundreds suffer from brittle bones, which break at the slightest jar. Thousands have irritated pleuritic stomachs from eating vegetables—especially cabbage—and can digest only the most nutritious foods such as milk and wheat bread, both commodities beyond the reach of any except the ultra-rich.

Strangely enough in this charnel house of Vienna, where the ashes of Beethoven, Mozart, Schubert, Johannes Brahms and Johannes Strauss are buried, the musical tradition has not been starved out—though it seems only a question of a few more months before the endurance of the big musical colony is finished—the works of these great composers are still played in the heaviest opera houses.

And Lehar, whose "Merry Widow" delighted all America, has produced another wonderful operetta "The Blue Mazur" which is even more melodious, dreamy and wistful than the "Merry Widow."

ARE FIRMS TRYING TO DODGE FEDERAL TAX?

Madison—That many of Wisconsin's corporations are hoping to escape the federal tax by increasing their capital stock was indicated by the records at the office of Secretary of State Elmer S. Hall today which shows that for the last three days of December upwards of $17,000,000 worth of increased capital stock issues were authorized. This is unprecedented. Usually for the last few days of the year there are no increases of capital stock and only a few new corporations. The rush in increases in capital stock was occasioned by the belief that congress will pass a bill which will permit 20 per cent of surplus of corporations to be divided in capital stock issues. It is also stated at the secretary of state's office that eighty companies in the state had made these increases in the state and that the amounts of increase ranged all the way from $50,000 to over $700,000. The fees for these increases of capital stock issued amounted to about $17,000.

Originally the banana was a native of the Eastern Tropics, but now it is cultivated in all tropical and sub-tropical countries.

The Milwaukee Automobile Show

"We are assured of full representation from each of the eleven congressional districts in the state at our annual convention in Milwaukee on January 19 and 20, which means that the fully 1500 dealers will be here," says T. C. McMillan, Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Automotive Dealers' Association.

"While the convention in itself will keep the dealers pretty busy during the two days they will be in session, an additional attraction for them during the latter part of this month is the Annual Auto Show from January 17 to 23, under the auspices of the Milwaukee Dealers' Association."

Mr. McMillan further states that there will be much of interest for the dealers on the convention program especially with reference to legislative subjects that directly affect or concern the industry. There is a pertinent desire on the part of the state dealers to bring about an emphatic reduction in the number of stolen cars each year with the attendant loss of time and money and inconvenience. This will be one of the subjects that will receive the attention of the committee and it is expected something very definite by way of legislation for enactment.

There are eleven directors in the state association, each one of whom has made a thorough canvass of his respective district and will vie with his colleagues in producing a representative turnout of dealer-delegates at the convention. The directors are: Peter Rhode, Kenosha; A. F. Raab, Sheboygan; C. R. Welton, Madison; A. W. L. Gilpin, Milwaukee; A. H. Thom, Oshkosh; M. D. Cameron, La Crosse; K. J. Reams, Wausau; C. W. Collier, Green Bay; G. R. Wood, Eau Claire; F. C. Tank, Rhinelander; and Bart J. Ruddle, Milwaukee, secretary.

When the annual convention of the Wisconsin Automotive Dealers' Association is held in Milwaukee, January 19 and 20, one of the busiest departments of the organization will be the members of the legislative committee.

This committee consists of one auto dealer from every county in the state. The members have already outlined a tentative program of recommendations to present to the convention for endorsement before they take the various subjects up with the representatives from the respective districts in the senate and assembly at Madison. Several important pieces of legislation affecting the safety first curbing of automobile thievery, which movement and laws relating to the has been in the ascendancy are among some of the activities to which the state dealers are directing their attention.

T. C. McMillan, Milwaukee, president of the association is confidently looking for about 1800 dealers at the convention, which convenes during two days of the thirteenth annual auto show of the Milwaukee association January 17 to 23, at the Milwaukee Auditorium. C. W. Collier, Green Bay, vice-president and G. R. Wood, Eau Claire, treasurer, have informed Mr. McMillan that their districts will be well represented. Other leaders in the automotive industry who will be in Milwaukee for the convention and show are: Peter Rhode, Kenosha; A. F. Raab, Sheboygan; C. R. Welton, Madison; A. W. L. Gilpin, Milwaukee; A. H. Thom, Oshkosh; M. D. Cameron, La Crosse; K. J. Reams, Wausau and F. C. Tank, Rhinelander, all of whom are directors in the state association, and Bart J. Ruddle, Milwaukee, secretary.

Keeping the roads open in winter will be one of the important subjects discussed at the annual convention of the Wisconsin State Automotive Dealers in Milwaukee January 19 and 20. Seventeen counties in the state have at the present time an organized plan for making the highways trafficable even under the most adverse conditions, with particular reference to heavy snowfalls, which invariably make trouble for the farmer, who has long since recognized the value of a motor car in expediting his city trips and keeping him in closer contact with the larger commercial centers. It is the purpose of the committee in charge of the program to give this subject careful and earnest consideration with a view to making it a uniform action on the part of auto dealers throughout the state during the winter months.

T. C. McMillan, Milwaukee, president of the state association is looking forward to a most successful convention. He is being assisted by C. W. Collier, Green Bay, vice-president; G. R. Wood, Eau Claire, treasurer, and Bart J. Ruddle, Milwaukee, secretary. Leaders in the movement to keep the roads open in winter and in prompting the proposition of better highways in general all the year round are: Peter Rhode, Kenosha; A. F. Raab, Sheboygan; C. R. Welton, Madison; A. W. L. Gilpin, Milwaukee; A. H. Thom, Oshkosh; M. D. Cameron, La Crosse; K. J. Reams, Wausau; F. C. Tank, Rhinelander.

Fully 1500 automotive dealers are expected in Milwaukee January 19 and 20 to attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin Automotive Dealers' Association, which will be an increase of more than 200 over last year, according to T. C. McMillan, Milwaukee, president.

While the convention sessions will cover a period of only two days, they will be jammed full of business, according to Mr. McMillan and this will include the further development of plans to have a uniform system of open highways throughout the state during the winter months. At the present time about seventeen counties have an organized program of road work during the winter months. It is the purpose of the state dealers to adopt some sort of plan to make this idea a general one in the state.

Several important pieces of prospective legislation also will be considered by the dealers. One of special importance is that pertaining to the heavy losses sustained each year by automobile owners through the pernicious activities of motor car thieves. It is understood that drastic action will be suggested to curb this growing menace and to afford owners of automobiles greater protection.

While in Milwaukee the dealers will have an opportunity to attend the annual show of the Milwaukee Automotive Dealers at the Auditorium, January 17 to 23. About 150 exhibitors have taken space in the Auditorium for the show, which will be the biggest in the twelve years history of the association. Prominent dealers in the state who are directors of the state association and are working to make the convention a success are: R. C. Tank, Rhinelander; G. R. Wood, Eau Claire; C. W. Collier, Green Bay; K. J. Reams, Wausau; M. D. Cameron, La Crosse; A. H. Thom, Oshkosh; T. C. McMillan, Milwaukee; A. W. L. Gilpin, Milwaukee; C. R. Welton, Madison; A. F. Raab, Sheboygan; Peter Rhode, Kenosha, and Bart J. Ruddle, Milwaukee, secretary.

Forecasts Your Prosperity—Share It

Ten Billion Dollars' Worth of Work To Be Done

Money, materials, and men are now ready to start work that has been neglected for three years.

The railroads must spend a billion dollars for repairs and improvements.

Another half-billion dollars must go into highway work.

Every locality is short of school buildings, houses, etc.

One city alone has sixteen million dollars available for sewers and water mains.

Hotels are needed everywhere.

Prices have been so high—men have been so busy at other things and money was so engaged in other enterprises that public work has not kept pace with our needs.

Now prices are down—workmen are eager for the jobs. Money seeks investment in such directions.

What Charles M. Schwab Says About It

"Never in our lifetime," says he, "have the shelves of the world been so bare. And I want to go on record as saying nothing could be healthier for American business than the very condition through which we are passing.

"It merely means that America has closed up its war factory and is jiggling up for peace production!"

Such Periods Do Not Last Long

Remember the things said about hard times when war ended.

Some predicted it would take two years to demobilize four million soldiers, for they said without jobs for the released men all activity must stop.

And Merchants did stop buying. Lower prices were prophesied. Factories felt it and slowed down.

But within six months we were at full production in all lines without enough workers to meet the needs.

The National Automobile Shows were held in January and February, 1919, just at the time when the most dire predictions were being made and when soldiers were coming home by the tens of thousands.

Our industry revealed its faith then.

We feel and show greater confidence now that prosperity for you and all of us is fast returning.

Transportation More Important Now

Production was the demand then.

Now distribution is of first importance. And economical distribution is impossible without the automobile.

Its influence touches every activity.

It extends to every cross-roads. Without it city transportation lines would break down under their increased burdens. The farmer would be unable to do his work or to deliver his goods to market.

Railroad lines would be deprived of the feeders that bring goods to them over every highway. Living costs would rise and land values would fall.

Requires a Million Automobiles For Replacements Alone

Can you imagine this city without automobiles?

Will anyone who has ever owned an automobile long endure without one?

Merely to maintain the present number means a replacement of a million cars a year.

We are wearing out clothes and shoes faster than such articles are now produced.

A hundred million people must be fed and clothed and housed. Children are outgrowing their things.

Every article that people use will be wanted and people will find ways of getting them once that need is manifested.

We do not beat the drum of hollow optimism.

It is real. The Milwaukee Automobile Show and the Automobile Shows to be held in hundreds of other cities prove our faith.

Go to the Milwaukee Automobile Show, January 17 to 23, inclusive, if you would share our confidence.

Boy Steals Pipe

Michael Wagner had a valuable pipe stolen from his shop by a well dressed boy who escaped. The bowl was in the form of a deer head with a rifle beneath and had an expensive stem. The pipe was on a show case when the youngster entered the shop and while the owner had his back turned the lad ran away with it. He was pursued, but Mr. Wagner was unable to overtake him.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes quick hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs, loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. MINORS DISCUSS NEW DRAFT RULES

Major Magnates Are Nearing an Agreement With Bush League Owners.

By United Press Leased Wire.
Chicago—First steps to get the major and minor baseball leagues working together were taken today when the drafting committee of the major leagues, working on the new national agreement, called in representatives of the smaller leagues to discuss differences.
The draft plan was the chief stumbling block to a harmonious session, but the magnates believed they could get together.
The drafting committee expected to complete its work today and have the new national agreement ready for submission to the joint meeting of the two leagues tomorrow.
The committee has already agreed upon the main points of the new national baseball constitution, including signing of a contract with Judge K. M. Landis for a term of seven years to act as chief dictator of baseball and adoption of a new form of players' contract.
Mike Sexton, president of the minor league organization, was given the job of stamping out gambling and any other unfair practices in the minors. He was directed to investigate the gambling evil and take immediate steps for its suppression.
President Stoneham and Manager McGraw of the New York Giants were expected to arrive here from the day after a flying trip from Cuba.

GEORGE SCHMIDT ROLLS 257 SCORE

George's Hand Is Sore From Accepting Congratulations—Form New League.

George Schmidt, who sells hats, coats, neckties, et cetera, et cetera, when he isn't bowling, is wearing a bandage around his wrist these days. Friends say his hand is almost worn out from shaking the mits of those who would congratulate him on his marvelous score bowled in the Elk league Sunday night. George hit the wood for a 257 count, making only one error. That score is the record for the alleys and practically assures Mr. Schmidt of the prize.
Tawson has the high average for the season, with a count of 155 closely followed by Dr. W. E. O'Keefe and Johnson with 152.
The Reds with a perfect attendance record, are leading the league with 12 games won and 3 lost for a percentage of .800. The Sox are in second place with 722.
Preparations are now being made for the opening of the second half of the bowling season if enough interest is shown to warrant the organization of a new league. It is proposed to start the new schedule shortly after Feb. 1. Those who wish to compete in that tourney have been asked to leave their names with the attendant in charge of the alleys. Individuals desiring to bowl with the teams are expected to make their wishes known to the attendant.
Following are standings of the teams:

Hill Eager For Chance To Take Fall Out Of Zoll

LADIES and gentlemen, this will introduce George Hill, wrestler, who is primed to give Carl Zoll, the pride of Green Bay, the finest little trimming of his life. George has been fishing around for his match for weeks and now that he has it practically clinched he will lose no time in putting his threats into execution if that is possible.
The referee squabble has not been definitely settled but there is every reason to believe an agreement will be reached by tonight. Zoll is said to be backing down on his demand for a Green Bay arbiter and it is more than likely that Tommy Ryan of Oshkosh will be the third man on the mat. Ryan is satisfactory to Hill, the promoters and to fans. He will be sure of giving satisfaction, say those who have seen him in action. Hill is so confident of whipping Zoll in short order that he has booked sleeper accommodations on train leaving Neenah for the north at 11:30 o'clock Thursday night. He wants to ride on that train to Ashland where he is scheduled to meet Gustafson Friday night. If he misses it he will be obliged to ride the greater part of Friday and will not reach the lake shore city until about an hour before the bout.
Zoll, laughed a big laugh when he heard of Hill's plan. Zoll wants to catch the midnight train for Green Bay but figures he will be the one who is to determine how long the mill will last.
It will be a great scrap and one worth going a long way to see. The men are quite evenly matched, both are eager for the go and a lot is at stake. If Zoll loses he will go down in the estimation of wrestling fans and Hill will claim the state championship, enabling him to dictate terms thereafter.

STATE BOXING BOARDS WANT UNIFORM CONTROL

By United Press Leased Wire.
New York—Formation of a constitution and discussion of standardization of rules were on the program for the second day of the conference here of fifteen state delegates meeting with the International Sporting Club to organize the national board of boxing control.
Bigteen representatives from fifteen states opened the conference last night. Sentiment among the delegates was unanimous for a national governing body, adoption of uniform rules that will fix prices of admission and force champions to defend their titles twice a year.
The organization will also seek to have boxing laws passed in states where the sport is not permitted now.
Walter Wetzel and Oscar Gimelner spent the week end at Madison on business.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

A Cincinnati Barber Tells How To Make a Remedy for Gray Hair
A well known resident of Cincinnati, Ohio, who has been a barber for more than forty years, recently made the following statement:
"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/4 ounce glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not enter the most delicate scalp, is not sticky, or greasy and does not rub off."

READY TO FIGHT IF HE GET HIS PRICE

Kilbane Avers He Has Not Been Made a Direct Offer for Services.

By Henry L. Farrell
By United Press Leased Wire
New York—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion of the world, has been the target of all the pugilistic artillery this season for not fighting. His preference for the stage has caused a howl among the featherweights and a general assault from the boxing public.
The champion was asked by the United Press for a statement on his reasons for remaining inactive this season and refusing to consider alleged offers by Tex Rickard and other promoters.
The champion denied that he has been given a definite offer.
"I'm ready to defend my title for a fair figure against any man in the world who will make the weight," his statement said.
"However, I don't know of a legitimate featherweight in the country. I'll take on any of those who have been howling for a match but first I want a direct offer. I am not going to waste my time on those fellows who sit in pool rooms and make champions overnight."
"Have I received a direct offer for a fight in the east? Sure. Leo Flynn, offered me $1,000 to fight in Madison Square Garden. Certainly I ignored that. Many outside the ring do not know how some things are worked. Some would be promoters wire a fight or an offer and if he accepts they go to Rickard and say for instance: 'I can get you Kilbane for $1,500,' and if Rickard accepts they tell me to come on and sign. They give me $1,000 and keep the extra $500."
"I got one offer from Rickard. He wanted to know what was the least I would take for a fight. I didn't answer him as that is not business methods. I'm the champion and if he wants my services he is the one to offer a price."
"I haven't been fighting because I should not be necessary for a champion to run around after contenders. No one came to me with the title on a silver plate and any manager who wants me to fight will have to come after me."
"I'll talk business any time the other fellow is ready and I don't want a million dollars for it."

LEADER OUTLINES "SINLESS SUNDAY"

Go to Church and Stay at Home Is All That Will Be Left if Blue Laws Pass.

By Lorry A. Jacobs
(Special to Post-Crescent)
New York—Rev. Harry L. Bowly, national secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, who is directing a nationwide movement for "Sinless Sabbath," outlined for me today his idea of "an ideal Sunday."
If his plan was put into effect there would be but two things to do on Sunday—go to church and stay home.
He would taboo—
Movies, baseball, tennis, newspapers, balloon vendors, stores, traveling, auto riding except to church, theaters, bootblacks, beaches, golf, concerts, delicatessen, resorts.
"I would call an ideal Sabbath," says Rev. Bowly, "a day on which all observe: 'Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy—a day on which people refrain from doing all those things that are so plainly in violation of the spirit of the day, whether of a commercial or uncommercial character.'"
Hits Commercialism
"Our object is to drive out what has become a continental Sunday and to defend and preserve the American Christian Sabbath."
"We are fully satisfied that the American Sabbath includes works of mercy and necessity, but that many are construing the Sabbath on such liberal terms as to change its name and ideals into a holiday and a business day."
"By far the greater evil, as we see it, comes through great and well financed commercial corporations such as the motion picture industry and professional baseball leagues."
"Need Puritan Spirit?"
"Puritans and Pilgrims observed the Sabbath more strictly than it has been observed at any time in the United States within the last 50 years and the need of the hour is to put more of the Puritan spirit into our American Sunday."
"The lot of the reformer is hard," says Rev. Bowly. "In order to make others observe the Sabbath we must have publicity and everyone is trying to keep us from getting it."

CREDITORS WILL CLOSE OUT UCKERMAN STOCK

Creditors of William Uckerman, College avenue grocer who recently filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, met Monday morning at the office of Attorney F. S. Bradford, referee. They decided to sell the entire stock of groceries at a public sale to the retail trade. The meeting adjourned until Wednesday in order to hear claims.
The grocery stock will be arranged for the sale and the store will probably open in three or four days. All business is in the hands of John Hackett, receiver.

State Road School

A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, has been notified that the tenth annual road school of the Wisconsin Highway commission will be held at Madison Jan. 31 and Feb. 1, 2, 3 and 4. An elaborate program is being arranged. The highway commissioner is planning to attend as well as several local road contractors.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

Beware! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for twenty-one years and proved safe by millions. Take Aspirin only as told in the Bayer package for Colds, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago, and for Pain. Handwritten boxes of twelve Bayer Tablets of Aspirin cost few cents. Drugists also sell larger packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid, adv.

DOES IT PAY TO WORRY ABOUT APPENDICITIS?

Can appendicitis be guarded against? Yes, by preventing intestinal infection. The intestinal antiseptic, Adler-Lika, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel removing ALL foul, decaying matter which might start infection. EXCELLENT for gas on stomach or chronic constipation. It removes matter which you never thought was in your system and which nothing else can dislodge. One man reports it is unbelievable the awful impurities Adler-Lika brought out. F. G. Walker, Druggist, adv.

COLDS

"Pape's Cold Compound" Breaks any Cold in Few Hours

Instant Relief! Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken usually breaks up any cold.
The very first dose opens clogged nostrils and the air passages of the head; stops nose running; relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness.
"Pape's Cold Compound" acts quick, sure, and costs only a few cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, contains no quinine—Insist upon Pape's! adv.

Short Sports

Neenah Cagers Coming
Neenah's Trinity Lutheran team will have several new players in its lineup for the basketball game at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening with St. Paul Lutherans, Appleton. Still smarting under the defeat administered by Neenah in the last game, the home five expects to play at its best and put the skids under the up river aggregation. The game is to be called at 8:15 o'clock.

Want Hockey Game
Bent-Motors is the name of a Green Bay hockey team which wants to arrange a battle with an Appleton hockey outfit if there is such a thing in this city. Hockey has never been popular here and thus far no teams have been organized. It is not probable the Bent-Motors will be accommodated here but if there is anyone here who thinks he can rig up a team a game may be arranged by writing to Harold Carolin in care of the Kellogg National bank in Green Bay.

The STAGE

"Up in Mabel's Room."
Miss Sylvia Gaynes, who plays an important part in "Up in Mabel's Room," the daring New York farce success, which A. H. Woods will present at the Appleton theater, Jan. 14, for an engagement of one night, believes that acting requires as much voice culture as singing.
"Critics and audiences complain," says Miss Gaynes, "that the enunciation of the American actor and actress is the worst in the world. If that is so it is because they do not learn how to use the voice. Not only do they do an injustice to their audiences, but an even greater one to themselves, for often their voices are gone when they are in their prime. Few people know how to make use of the sounding board of the body and so wear out their throats and weaken their chests. Another important feature of clear enunciation is the use of vowels. The vowel should be emphasized rather than the consonant, if you want people to understand what you say."

MR. OR MRS. DYSPEPTIC
Get rid of Indigestion and Stomach Worries with "Pape's Diapiesin"

"Really does" put weak, disordered stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness due to acid fermentation—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapiesin the largest selling stomach antacid and regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments and turns sour, you belch gas and eructate undigested food or water; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated, remember the moment "Pape's Diapiesin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness. A box of Pape's Diapiesin tablets costs so little at drug stores too. adv.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES
If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Farmitin (double strength), and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.
This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. adv.

Make 1921 Your Best Year

Prosperity does not always mean progress. There is no real gain unless a part of today's plenty is put to one side. Progress is not measured by your salary, but by your savings. Today is the best day to start that savings account. Begin with the first month of the year and make 1921 your best year.

STEEL COMPANY TO COME HERE IN 1922

Douglas Block to Have Three Lines of Business Under One Roof.

One of Appleton's main business corners will house a "five cent to one dollar" store, a cafeteria and a large restaurant, when the L. R. Steel company, Buffalo, N. Y., takes over the Douglas building occupied by Seelitz Brothers drug store. The company made this announcement in an advertisement in The Chicago Tribune showing the number of stores now operating in United States and Canada, and those it intends to open. The three lines of business will be conducted under one roof, according to Attorney J. P. Frank, who handles the company's interests. The advertisement announces that this change will take place in 1922, but Mr. Frank states the present lease does not expire until May 1, 1922, so the L. R. Steel company will not take possession sooner.

The eastern company purchased the Douglas block at the corner of College avenue and Oneida street from Dr. Earl Douglas last summer. The property also includes the buildings occupied by the Cozy restaurant, Cozy barber shop and Bachman's pool room.

A discussion on "Friendship" was held by Miss Laura Brain at the weekly meeting of the Lawrence College Y. W. C. A. at 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening at Peabody Hall.

PLAN MEETING OF STATE REALTY MEN

Appleton Real Estate Board Re-elects Officers—Name Committees.

Officers were re-elected and a convention organization formed at the meeting of the Appleton Real Estate board Saturday noon at the Sherman house. No time will be lost in beginning preparation for the state gathering of the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate brokers, which is to be held here February 16 and 17.

The officers of the Appleton board are: President, P. A. Kornely; vice president, R. E. Carneross; secretary, treasurer, Daniel P. Steinberg. In his capacity as secretary of the state association, Mr. Steinberg is general chairman of the convention and has arranged the program for the gathering. The members of the program committee are: W. E. Webster, Hudson; Charles R. Gady, Green Bay; and P. E. Stark, Madison.

The chairmen named for the arrangements committee are: reception, George E. Baldwin; hotel reservations, H. G. Thomas; publicity, D. E. Vaughn; finance, P. A. Kornely; entertainment, R. E. Carneross; information, E. P. Alesch. Wives of the Appleton realtors will act as a woman's committee to entertain the wives of the delegates.

Reservations are already being received for the convention. A survey was made of hotels in Appleton, Neenah and Menasha, and it was found about 400 could be accommodated. Additional room will be provided if the attendance passes that figure.

Convention headquarters and meetings will be at Elk hall. A meeting of the state board of directors is to be held February 15, one day previous to the opening of the convention proper. Mr. Steinberg expects to announce the complete program within the next few days.

MILWAUKEE MAN GIVES $1,000 FOR A CHURCH

The Rev. T. D. Williams, superintendent of Appleton district of the Methodist church, left Tuesday morning for Madison where he will attend a meeting of the nine district superintendents of Wisconsin. Matters pertaining to the centenary movement and plans for rural church institute work next summer will be discussed.

Dr. Paul Vogt of the board of home mission and church extension, Philadelphia, will preside at the meeting. Another speaker will be Dr. J. E. Jenkins, newly appointed secretary of the St. Paul area.

Mr. Williams has announced the gift of $1,000 by a Milwaukee man for erection of a memorial church in the Appleton district. It is impossible that Dunbar, a little town in Marinette county, now without a church, will be selected.

FRED PETERSON IS PRESIDENT OF CEMETERY ASSN.

Secretary's Report Indicates Association Had Most Successful Year.

Fred Peterson was elected president of the Appleton cemetery association to succeed the late Herman Erb at the annual meeting in the office of Joseph Koffend, Jr., secretary and treasurer, Monday. Frank J. Harwood succeeds Mr. Peterson as vice president and Mr. Koffend was re-elected secretary and treasurer. An office he has held since 1907. Trustees elected are John L. Hettlinger, August H. Meyer and Joseph Koffend, Jr., for three years; terms: H. S. Bradford for one year to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Erb.

From a financial standpoint the year now closed was the most successful in the history of the association. The revenue from the sale of lots was larger than the association's total income five years ago. Lot sales aggregated more than $12,500, and aggregated income, including cash on hand at the beginning of the year was $21,775.86.

Investments made during the year aggregated $9,554.29. It was emphasized that Appleton cemetery association is not a stock company in the true sense of the word. Every person owning a lot in Riverside cemetery is a stockholder and is privileged to inspect the association's books in the office of the secretary.

The secretary's report showed 155 internments were made in Riverside cemetery during the year just ended.

Following is the itemized report of expenditures and receipts:

Investments	$9,554.29

PLANTZ ATTENDS BIG EDUCATIONAL MEETINGS

Dr. Samuel Plantz has returned from New York city where he attended the annual meeting of the Methodist Educational association and the meeting of the American College association at Hotel Astor.

The Methodist Educational association met Wednesday and Thursday. This association includes all colleges and academies under the auspices of the Methodist church in the United States and also the Methodist work in the state university. A banquet was served at Hotel Astor at which papers were read on various educational subjects. Dr. Plantz reported on an investigation of the correlation of college courses and the courses in the theological seminaries.

The American College association met Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This association includes all the institutions of college rank. The program consisted of reports of commissions which investigated various lines of educational work. Dr. Samuel Plantz acted on a committee with President Perry of Hamilton university and Dean Nicholson of Northwestern university investigating condition of scholarships in American colleges.

Charles Alexander of New York opened up his beautiful home and entertained the presidents at a reception. Representatives of the bureau of education at Washington and the Commonwealth Foundation read papers.

Harry Cummings of Eagle River was an Appleton visitor Monday.

Girlhood, Maidenhood, Motherhood

Minneapolis, Minn.:—"Before my marriage I was in a frail condition of health. My prospective mother-in-law suggested that I use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as I had not improved by the use of other remedies. I soon found the Favorite Prescription was what I needed for I gained in strength and cheerfulness of spirit. I am now the mother of eleven children and during expectancy I always take the Favorite Prescription and find it very helpful. To mothers and to other women who suffer I urge the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I always keep a supply of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription in the house for regulating the bowels."—Mrs. F. R. Johnson, 525 Sixth street, South.

SUGAR IS $18 LESS THAN RECORD PRICE

Wholesale Price Has Dropped More Than $18 in Last Eight Months.

The wholesale price of sugar went from $10.15 per hundred pounds on Oct. 17, 1919, to $27.35, May 18, 1920, and then gradually declined to $9.10, Jan. 7, 1921. Fortunes were made and lost during the fluctuation of the market and at one time it was almost impossible to get sugar at all, retailers being compelled to deal it out in one pound lots to their patrons as long as their shipments lasted. On Jan. 10, 1920, several retailers received shipments of clarified sugar to help out for which they paid $10.15 per hundred pounds.

A west College avenue grocer kept the following record of the variation of wholesale prices between the dates mentioned above:

Oct. 17, 1919	$10.15	Oct. 25, 1919	$11.20
Nov. 1, 1919	$11.12	Nov. 11, 1919	$13.65
Nov. 14, 1919	$11.05	Dec. 1, 1919	$13.50
Dec. 29, 1919	$14.13	Jan. 6, 1920	$14.39
Jan. 30, 1920	$15.85	Feb. 13, 1920	$21.25
Feb. 17, 1920	$24.45	Feb. 28, 1920	$14.45
March 2, 1920	$16.80	March 5, 1920	$18.30
March 23, 1920	$19.35	March 30, 1920	$19.41
April 1, 1920	$18.15	May 18, 1920	$27.35
June 5, 1920	$27.30	June 15, 1920	$23.30
July 2, 1920	$23.30	July 23, 1920	$25.30
Aug. 6, 1920	$22.95	Sept. 4, 1920	$17.10
Sept. 13, 1920	$15.70	Sept. 21, 1920	$15.50
Sept. 24, 1920	$15.25	Oct. 8, 1920	$13.50
Oct. 26, 1920	$12.30	Oct. 30, 1920	$12.40
